Senate Rejects Striker-Draft Plan

Coalition Kills Proposal, 70-13; Case Bill Goes To White House

House Accepts Senate's Amendments to Union Control Measure

VETO MAY BE URGED BY SCHWELLENBACH

Lawmakers Say Draft Plan Would Make Army "Penal Institution"

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP)—A rebellious Senate, armed with doublebarreled news of the coal strike settlement and House passage of the sweeping Case bill, rejected 70 to 13 today President Truman's plan to draft strikers who refused to work in government-seized industries.

Cries of "Hitlerism" and "ill-considered measure" echoed in the Senate chamber as a powerful coalition of thirty-three Democrats, thirty-six Republicans and one Progressive teamed to knock out the controversial draft provision. Voting to retain it were thirteen Democrats.

The Case bill, given additional teeth by Senate amendments, was sent to the White House amid predictions from some Democrats that it would be vetoed. It passed the House, 230 to 106, and is designed as a permanent union control measure. The president had asked that congress undertake a study of labor unrest causes before taking long-range steps.

Opposing the president's proposal, Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said that the amended Case bill was "comprehensive, pro-American labor legislation."

Sen. Hoey (D-NC) called the president's plan only a "temporary" measure to protect the "public necessity and security." But Sen. Wagner (D-NY), who moved to strike out the draft section, declared:

"I feel that this bill involves punishment out of all relation to the offense. Now that the railroad strike is over, and with indications

Whitney Says Truman Action Has "Cemented Labor Closer Together"

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said tonight that President Truman's action in the railroad strike "has cemented labor closer together in these United States than it has ever been before."

Whitney told a CIO-sponsored open air rally, attended by 35,000 according to police estimates, that the railroad engineers and trainmen during the negotiations "did not know at that time that the cards were stacked against us."

The brotherhood leader said the Railway Labor Act "hamstrings" those who come under its provisions and declared that the railroads were taken over during the strike "because the railroad barons knew that they could not whip the railway workers and that they had to have the assistance of government."

O'Conor Requests Curran's Opinion On Move by Lane

Assembly Session May Be Called To Make More Voters Eligible

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 29—(AP)—Gov. O'Conor announced today he had asked Attorney General William Curran for an opinion regarding various requests he has received for the calling of a special session of the General Assembly to enact legislation which would allow additional veterans and others to vote in the June 24 primary.

He also said he has arranged a meeting for Friday (10 a. m.) with representatives of veterans' organizations to discuss their petitions for such a session.

The 1945 Legislature passed a bill cancelling the registration of all persons who had not voted for five years, disqualifying all who did not re-register from taking part in this year's primary. Also, many war veterans who voted absentee ballots in the 1944 general elections failed to specify party affiliation, thus preventing them from balloting June 24.

Sen. Radcliffe (D-Md), O'Conor's opponent for the nomination for the Senate, former Rep. John A. Meyer and the veterans' Political League all recommended the special session after the move was inaugurated last night by William Preston Lane, Jr., one of the three major candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

President Will Continue To Fight for "Best Welfare of Country"

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — President Truman turned on critics of his recent labor policy tonight with an assertion that he would continue to fight "for the right of the individual" and "the best welfare of the country."

Speaking at commencement exercises at George Washington university, the president said, "Sometimes we have emergencies to meet," and they have been met in the way that seems best for the country's welfare.

Without mentioning directly his appeal to Congress for labor legislation to handle strikes against the government, he pointed his remarks to those who he considered critical of his course.

He said that when you can get Sens. Pepper (D-Fla) and Taft (R-Ohio), the Communist Daily Worker and the Wall Street Journal "in accord, the world is perfectly safe."

Speaking after receiving an honorary degree of doctor of laws, and after his daughter Margaret was graduated from the 125-year-old institution, the president told the commencement audience "we've just been through the greatest struggle in history for individual liberty," and "we are still fighting for the right of the individual."

He added that he was going to continue that fight for individual liberty.

He said that the United States government had been organized to protect the rights of the individual.

"The end of things has not come for this nation or the world," he continued.

"When the president of the United States, by one speech, can get Claude Pepper and Bob Taft, the Communist Daily Worker, and the Wall Street Journal in accord, the world is perfectly safe."

Mr. Truman quoted from the speeches which he said were made by Henry Clay, speeches he said had been referred to him by Associate Justice Hugo Black, of the supreme court.

Clay, the president said, predicted many years ago that at the rate the government was going there would scarcely be a vestige left by the third of March, 1837.

On another occasion, he said, Clay talked of the government being transferred to "an elective monarchy". He said that it seemed to him that he had heard talk like

Agreement Ends Railway Express Labor Dispute

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — The White House announced tonight the signing of an agreement ending the long labor dispute between the Railway Express Agency, Inc., and 75,000 employes.

The agreement, disclosed by Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, follows the pattern set by settlement of the railway dispute. It allows an increase of sixteen cents an hour retroactive to January 1 and two and one half cents an hour retroactive to May 22, or a total of eighteen and one-half cents.

Ross said the action which took place at 6 p. m., (EST), settled the last of the big nationwide industrial disputes with one exception. That's the threatened strike, June 15 in the maritime industry.

CPA Orders Cut In Non-Housing Authorizations

Small Directs Two-Thirds Slash during Next 45-Day Period

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — John D. Small, civilian production administrator, tonight ordered a deep slash in non-housing constructions during the next forty-five days.

Small directed each agency field office to reduce its dollar value of non-housing authorizations by two-thirds in comparison with its rate of project approvals for the two-week period ending May 23.

This action is being taken, Small said, because of the "impact of strikes on production of building materials," and because of the "large volume of construction already under way or authorized."

CPA's order came a few hours after National Housing Administrator Wilson W. Wyatt had announced a new housing inspection program designed to tie prices closer to the actual value of new homes built under the veterans' emergency housing program.

Order Will Be Reviewed

In announcing the drastic cut in non-housing authorizations, Small said the order will be reviewed at the end of the forty-five-day period to determine whether it can be relaxed.

The purpose of CPA's commercial and industrial building controls, in effect since March 26, is to divert scarce construction materials to the veterans' housing program.

CPA officials said they had no figures in Washington on the amount of non-housing construction authorized during the two weeks ending May 23. They said the two-thirds slash will be made on the basis of authorizations handled by each of the agency's regional offices.

Under the new CPA order, generally only projects which fall within the following conditions may be approved while the curtailment is in effect:

Projects vitally necessary to public health and safety;

Those which will increase production of critically scarce building materials;

Those essential to increased food production;

Those which will provide minimum community facilities "absolutely necessary for new residential

FLOOD MAKES NEW THOUSANDS HOMELESS, LEAVES ELEVEN DEAD

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 29. (AP) —Receding slowly in its upper reaches after causing death and widespread destruction, the flood-swollen Susquehanna swept into Sunbury and Pennsylvania's capital city today to make new thousands homeless.

Turned from a placid, shallow stream to a raging, brown torrent by four days of heavy rains, the river and its tributaries raced out of their banks to kill at least eleven persons and cause untold damage in Pennsylvania and New York.

Damage estimates already exceeded $3,000,000 as the stream, debris-laden and swift-running, spilled over rich farmlands and low-lying areas of towns and cities on its banks.

Latest reported deaths were those of two Red Cross workers and a young woman they tried vainly to rescue from the flood-swollen Morris run in Tioga county, Pa.

Cecile Kennedy, Red Cross field director, said William Hart, Red Cross chairman in Morris Run, Edward Graham and Miss Innes Williams, otherwise unidentified, were swept away Monday night from a bridge. Hart and Graham had gone there to try to save Miss Williams when the span crashed and all fell into the stream.

LEWIS SIGNS NEW SOFT COAL CONTRACT

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, left, looking on, John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' chief, puts his signature to a new contract under which 400,000 miners will return to work immediately. Center is Secretary of Interior Julius A. Krug, administrator of the government-seized mines, who announced the contract agreement, which calls for an eighteen and one-half cent hourly basic wage increase, a welfare fund built on a five-cents-a-ton levy on coal production and a hospital fund.

Bowles Authorizes Retail Price Increases for Milk, Butter and Cheddar Cheese

Radcliffe Says Strike Will Not Keep Ships Idle

Navy Reportedly Is Ready with Complete Plan of Operation

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Sen. Radcliffe (D-Md) said today the merchant marine would not be halted by the threatened nationwide shipping strike June 15 and on Capitol Hill it was reported the navy was ready with a complete plan of operation.

Leaving a conference with President Truman, Radcliffe told reporters "the ships are going to run, you can bet on that." He declined to elaborate.

Later, a member of Congress, who wished to remain anonymous, said the navy and War Shipping Administration had worked out plans to keep the ships moving. The Navy department and WSA were silent.

Leaders of the 214,000 members of seven unions poised to walk out over wage demands of the CIO maritime union said they had sent word to rival AFL groups that they expected picket lines "to be observed."

Just before entering a conference called by Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach in an effort to avert the crisis, Harry Bridges told reporters the messages advised the AFL maritime groups of intention to "disturb their working conditions as little as possible." Bridges heads the CIO longshoremen.

Only a week ago AFL President William A. Green said the AFL unions would "carry out their contracts" in case of the strike. This was interpreted at the time to mean the AFL seamen, longshoremen and other maritime workers would cross the CIO lines.

The AFL and CIO unions in this field long have been hostile.

Housewives Will Pay One Cent More for Milk, about 11 for Butter

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Chester Bowles tonight authorized retail ceiling increases of one cent a quart for milk, about eleven cents a pound for butter and approximately six cents for cheddar cheese.

The stabilization director announced that housewives will begin paying the higher prices early in June. The dates and the exact price increases will be set in a few days.

Bowles also ordered controls on use of butterfat. This, he said, was a move designed to increase production of butter.

Bowles said the price hikes are being ordered because of "apparent congressional determination to slash food subsidies," and in order to "maintain the nation's milk production in the face of increased feed costs."

Even while he ordered price increases, Bowles asserted that if subsidy reductions contemplated by Congress are finally approved there will be "further sharp increases in the prices of milk, butter and cheese after July 1."

He added that if all subsidies were eliminated July 1 as "is being proposed in some quarters, the price of milk would immediately jump three cents a quart in many areas, and butter would shoot up to about eighty cents a pound."

The new price increase program, Bowles said, will maintain production" by assuring dairy farmers of adequate returns through an increase of approximately forty cents per hundredweight" in milk prices.

The stabilization director, in a sweeping revision of the dairy price and allocation program, also directed:

1. A ban on the sale of whipping cream, effective July 1.

2. Establishment of price ceilings for the first time on the sale of bulk fluid cream.

This will be done early in June by freezing prices of "first handlers" at the highest price received during

Byrnes Says U. S. Will Seek World Armament Curbs

Secretary Is Certain System of Arms Regulation Will Be Set Up

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed today that the United States will throw its weight into a movement to curb the world's armaments in the interests of peace.

He told the House Foreign Affairs committee this country wants "to see the world freed from both the fears and economic burdens x x x of unnecessarily large armed forces."

"There has not yet been time" since the war's end to establish a "system of arms regulation," he said, but he expressed confidence this objective will be reached.

"It is a purpose of our foreign policy to work for a limitation of armaments in the light of requirements for the maintenance of internal order and of international peace and security," he said.

In a prepared text of the Byrnes testimony, made available to reporters, later the words "regulation of arms" rather than "limitation of arms" were used.

Byrnes did not say specifically whether he favored reducing present armed might or just limiting its buildup in the future.

He enunciated his peace offensive policy while supporting a bill for a broad program of "military cooperation" between the United States and other nations of the Western hemisphere.

The measure, proposed May 6 by President Truman, would authorize the chief executive to transfer war goods to other American countries, to train their military personnel and help them repair equipment.

Byrnes said such legislation would not promote increased armament, because transfers of material would be limited. He said the main idea was to standardize all equipment

Miners Get $1.85 A Day Pay Boost And Health Fund Through Royalty

Contract Is Signed at White House; Men Are Ordered Back to Pits

35 TO 50 CENTS A TON PRICE HIKE IS SEEN

Operators Have No Role in Climactic Drama; ODT Order Is Lifted

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP) — The fifty-nine-day-old soft coal strike ended tonight on terms that gave John L. Lewis's 400,000 miners a $1.85 a day pay raise and a health and welfare fund financed by royalties on coal production.

Lewis immediately ordered his United Mine Workers back into the pits. He predicted volume production would be under way by Monday.

The contract halting the strike was signed at the White House with President Truman looking on in "gratification." Secretary of the Interior Krug, boss of the mines since federal seizure May 22, pulled a pen from a pocket and signed for the government.

Lewis borrowed a presidential pen and scratched his name on the agreement for the UMW.

Then with other union and government officials they joined in a round of handclasps and relieved grins.

The coal mine operators had no role in the climactic drama. After a meeting tonight they announced that they had not been given a glimpse of the contract "until late today" and would have no comment on its terms pending detailed analysis. They are not expected to get their mines back until they sign up.

A spokesman for the operators predicted that concessions the government gave the miners would boost the price of soft coal thirty-five to fifty cents a ton.

Five-Cent Royalty

In addition to the pay boost, the concessions include a welfare fund financed by tapping coal production for a royalty of five cents a ton, and administered jointly by labor and management.

Other concessions:

A hospital fund paid for and administered by the miners, more vacation pay, extra safety precautions, a survey looking toward improvement of medical, hospital, sanitary and housing facilities, compliance by all mine managers with state workmen's compensation laws even though the laws are not compulsory.

For the individual miner, his new base pay will be $1.85 an hour instead of $1. He will work nine hours a day, get the $1.85 for seven hours, and time and a half for the other two hours.

That means his take home pay will be $1.85 more a day, even if he works only one day a week.

If the miner is paid on a tonnage or some other basis, he still will get a $1.85 a day raise.

The normal work-week will be five nine-hour days. The operator can require a sixth day's work but will have to pay time and a half for it.

Truman "Has Failed His Calling," Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Declares

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Henry Morgenthau, Jr., former secretary of the treasury, declared tonight that President Truman "has renounced the Roosevelt philosophy and the Roosevelt policy' and for that reason the nation is "in a state of crisis today."

Morgenthau suggested the voters "cleanse" the House of "many of the men who made such a disgraceful spectacle of themselves last Saturday." The House Saturday overwhelmingly passed the president's strike control legislation which Morgenthau called "vicious" and "undemocratic."

Morgenthau said in a talk prepared for broadcast that he listened to the president's speech before Congress that day and could only conclude that Mr. Truman "has decided to make an open and final rejection of the Roosevelt inheritance."

Morgenthau called it "an outright declaration that his methods, his policies, and his purposes are totally different from those of the man to whom he actually owes the presidency."

Morgenthau said Mr. Truman's action "is only the logical outcome of a whole series of disastrous decisions extending over the past year. The inflationary conditions which are the underlying cause of strikes and economic dislocations today, have their roots in the thoughtless haste with which Mr. Truman permitted many wartime controls to be scrapped."

He cited abolition of the War

13 GIs Defy Threats And Refuse To Testify At Lichfield Trial

BAD NAUEHIM, May 29. (AP)—Thirteen key prosecution witnesses, claiming they were badly treated by the army, defied threats of military discipline and refused to testify today before a court-martial trying an officer accused of mistreating GI prisoners in the United States Army detention camp at Lichfield, England.

The prosecution halted the proceeding and the court-martial was adjourned until Friday. The eight-man officer court ordered all thirteen of the witnesses cited for disciplinary action.

The witnesses had been named in the indictment of Lt. Granville Cubage, Oklahoma City, as victims of his allegedly cruel treatment at Lichfield where they once were imprisoned.

They ignored the court's assurances their complaints would be investigated and defied its warning that such complaints did not excuse them from testifying.

GI's Wife, in Six-Month Coma, Gives Birth to Apparently Normal Child

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 29—(AP)—A 24-year-old wife of a soldier in a condition of "suspended death" for six months gave birth to an apparently normal child, her physician reported today.

Mrs. Leland Wenger's four-pound daughter spent its first day in an oxygen tent at Allentown hospital. Attendans said the baby is in good condition.

The mother, daughter of David Marblestone, San Francisco, suffered a brain injury last November when she and her husband, a corporal then stationed at Indiantown Gap, Pa., were in an automobile collision.

Still in critical condition, she had been fed through a stomach tube and until recently physicians had been anxious about chances of the child surviving. However, delivery was normal after rapid labor. No anesthetics were used.

Dr. Gabriel A. Schwartz said Mrs. Wenger is not in a coma but that only vital organs of her body independent of the brain appear to function and maintain life.

The condition was caused by severe multiple brain hemorrhages, he said, which resulted in complete paralysis of her limbs and facial and throat muscles so that she cannot move, talk, eat or even smile.

However, Dr. Schwartz observed that the mother apparently is semi-conscious because her eyes move, tears sometimes overflow them and they indicated occasional recognition of visitors.

It is impossible to determine if she knew of the birth, reported the physician. He had been awaiting arrival of the child before attempting any specific treatment or operation and expressed belief Mrs. Wenger might continue indefinitely in her present condition.

Wenger was advised of his daughter's birth by telephone at Walter Reed hospital in Washington where he has been a patient because of a leg injury suffered in the accident. His joy was tempered by his anxiety for his wife.

Ticket Headed by Baldwin Has New Attorney General Candidate

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — The Maryland Democratic political campaign took a new turn today with the announcement of a change in the slate headed by Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

Baldwin headquarters disclosed that J. DeWeese Carter, Denton, had abandoned his candidacy for the attorney general nomination in the Democratic primary, and that he had been replaced by House Speaker John S. White, Hyattsville.

Carter's decision was attributed to fatigue resulting from his army service in the Philippines. He was en route home for his discharge when his name was entered in the contest by a relative holding a power of attorney. The certificate of candidacy was filed just before the deadline, April 15.

In a letter to Baldwin, which the organization made public, Carter said that since his separation from army service his physical condition had prohibited his active participation in the campaign. In justice to the Baldwin ticket, he said, he felt he should withdraw.

Carter's retirement was too late to keep his name off the primary ballots, however.

White, who has represented Prince George's county in the Legislature since 1935, was already in the running for attorney general but was unattached to an organization ticket.

The Baldwin ticket now consists of Rep. Baldwin, for governor; State Sen. John B. Funk, Frederick, for comptroller, and White for attorney general.

The composition of the principal slates opposed, is as follows:

William Preston Lane, Jr., Washington county, for governor; James J. Lacy, Baltimore, for comptroller, and Hall Hammond, Baltimore county, for attorney general.

J. Millard Tawes, Somerset county, for governor; Charles H. Roloson, Jr., Baltimore, for comptroller, and W. Earle Cobey, Allegany county, for attorney general.

Another development today was the announcement by a group known as the Veterans' Political Organization that it was supporting Baldwin for governor. W. Rae Dempsey is chairman and William F. C. Marlow, secretary-treasurer, of the organization.

CPA Orders Cut In Non-Housing Authorizations

Small Directs Two-Thirds Slash during Next 45-Day Period

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — John D. Small, civilian production administrator, tonight ordered a deep slash in non-housing constructions during the next forty-five days.

Small directed each agency field office to reduce its dollar value of non-housing authorizations by two-thirds in comparison with its rate of project approvals for the two-week period ending May 23.

This action is being taken, Small said, because of the "impact of strikes on production of building materials," and because of the "large volume of construction already under way or authorized."

Bowles Authorizes Retail Price Increases for Milk, Butter and Cheddar Cheese

Housewives Will Pay One Cent More for Milk, about 11 for Butter

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Chester Bowles tonight authorized retail ceiling increases of one cent a quart for milk, about eleven cents a pound for butter and approximately six cents for cheddar cheese.

The stabilization director announced that housewives will begin paying the higher prices early in June. The dates and the exact price increases will be set in a few days.

Bowles also ordered controls on use of butterfat. This, he said, was a move designed to increase production of butter.

Bowles said the price hikes are being ordered because of "apparent congressional determination to slash food subsidies," and in order to "maintain the nation's milk production in the face of increased feed costs."

Even while he ordered price increases, Bowles asserted that if subsidy reductions contemplated by Congress are finally approved there will be "further sharp increases in the prices of milk, butter and cheese after July 1."

He added that if all subsidies were eliminated July 1 as "is being proposed in some quarters, the price of milk would immediately jump three cents a quart in many areas, and butter would shoot up to about eighty cents a pound."

The new price increase program, Bowles said, will maintain production" by assuring dairy farmers of adequate returns through an increase of approximately forty cents per hundredweight" in milk prices.

The stabilization director, in a sweeping revision of the dairy price and allocation program, also directed:

1. A ban on the sale of whipping cream, effective July 1.

2. Establishment of price ceilings for the first time on the sale of bulk fluid cream.

This will be done early in June by freezing prices of "first handlers" at the highest price received during

Radcliffe Says Strike Will Not Keep Ships Idle

Navy Reportedly Is Ready with Complete Plan of Operation

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Sen. Radcliffe (D-Md) said today the merchant marine would not be halted by the threatened nation-wide shipping strike June 15 and on Capitol Hill it was reported the navy was ready with a complete plan of operation.

Leaving a conference with President Truman, Radcliffe told reporters "the ships are going to run, you can bet on that." He declined to elaborate.

Later, a member of Congress, who wished to remain anonymous, said the navy and War Shipping Administration had worked out plans to keep the ships moving. The Navy department and WSA were silent.

Leaders of the 214,000 members of seven unions poised to walk out over wage demands of the CIO maritime union said they had sent word to rival AFL groups that they expected picket lines "to be observed."

Just before entering a conference called by Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach in an effort to avert the crisis, Harry Bridges told reporters the messages advised the AFL maritime groups of intention to "disturb their working conditions as little as possible." Bridges heads the CIO longshoremen.

Only a week ago AFL President William A. Green said the AFL unions would "carry out their contracts" in case of the strike. This was interpreted at the time to mean the AFL seamen, longshoremen and other maritime workers would cross the CIO lines.

The AFL and CIO unions in this field long have been hostile.

Truman "Has Failed His Calling," Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Declares

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP) — Henry Morgenthau, Jr., former secretary of the treasury, declared tonight that President Truman "has renounced the Roosevelt philosophy and the Roosevelt policy' and for that reason the nation is "in a state of crisis today."

Morgenthau suggested the voters "cleanse" the House of "many of the men who made such a disgraceful spectacle of themselves last Saturday." The House Saturday overwhelmingly passed the president's strike control legislation which Morgenthau called "vicious" and "undemocratic."

Morgenthau said in a talk prepared for broadcast that he listened to the president's speech before Congress that day and could only conclude that Mr. Truman "has decided to make an open and final rejection of the Roosevelt inheritance."

Morgenthau called it "an outright declaration that his methods, his policies, and his purposes are totally different from those of the man to whom he actually owes the presidency."

Morgenthau said Mr. Truman's action "is only the logical outcome of a whole series of disastrous decisions extending over the past year. The inflationary conditions which are the underlying cause of strikes and economic dislocations today, have their roots in the thoughtless haste with which Mr. Truman permitted many wartime controls to be scrapped."

He cited abolition of the War

Byrnes Says U. S. Will Seek World Armament Curbs

Secretary Is Certain System of Arms Regulation Will Be Set Up

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed today that the United States will throw its weight into a movement to curb the world's armaments in the interests of peace.

He told the House Foreign Affairs committee this country wants "to see the world freed from both the fears and economic burdens x x x of unnecessarily large armed forces."

"There has not yet been time" since the war's end to establish a "system of arms regulation," he said, but he expressed confidence this objective will be reached.

"It is a purpose of our foreign policy to work for a limitation of armaments in the light of requirements for the maintenance of internal order and of international peace and security," he said.

In a prepared text of the Byrnes testimony, made available to reporters, later the words "regulation of arms" rather than "limitation of arms" were used.

Byrnes did not say specifically whether he favored reducing present armed might or just limiting its buildup in the future.

He enunciated his peace offensive policy while supporting a bill for a broad program of "military cooperation" between the United States and other nations of the Western hemisphere.

The measure, proposed May 6 by President Truman, would authorize the chief executive to transfer war goods to other American countries, to train their military personnel and help them repair equipment.

Byrnes said such legislation would not promote increased armament, because transfers of material would be limited. He said the main idea was to standardize all equipment

13 GIs Defy Threats And Refuse To Testify At Lichfield Trial

BAD NAUEHIM, May 29. (AP)—Thirteen key prosecution witnesses, claiming they were badly treated by the army, defied threats of military discipline and refused to testify today before a court-martial trying an officer accused of mistreating GI prisoners in the United States Army detention camp at Lichfield, England.

The prosecution halted the proceeding and the court-martial was adjourned until Friday. The eight-man officer court ordered all thirteen of the witnesses cited for disciplinary action.

The witnesses had been named in the indictment of Lt. Granville Cubage, Oklahoma City, as victims of his allegedly cruel treatment at Lichfield where they once were imprisoned.

They ignored the court's assurances their complaints would be investigated and defied its warning that such complaints did not excuse them from testifying.

Miners Get $1.85 A Day Pay Boost And Health Fund Through Royalty

Contract Is Signed at White House; Men Are Ordered Back to Pits

35 TO 50 CENTS A TON PRICE HIKE IS SEEN

Operators Have No Role in Climactic Drama; ODT Order Is Lifted

WASHINGTON, May 29. (AP) — The fifty-nine-day-old soft coal strike ended tonight on terms that gave John L. Lewis's 400,000 miners a $1.85 a day pay raise and a health and welfare fund financed by royalties on coal production.

Lewis immediately ordered his United Mine Workers back into the pits. He predicted volume production would be under way by Monday.

The contract halting the strike was signed at the White House with President Truman looking on in "gratification." Secretary of the Interior Krug, boss of the mines since federal seizure May 22, pulled a pen from a pocket and signed for the government.

Lewis borrowed a presidential pen and scratched his name on the agreement for the UMW.

Then with other union and government officials they joined in a round of handclasps and relieved grins.

The coal mine operators had no role in the climactic drama. After a meeting tonight they announced that they had not been given a glimpse of the contract "until late today" and would have no comment on its terms pending detailed analysis. They are not expected to get their mines back until they sign up.

A spokesman for the operators predicted that concessions the government gave the miners would boost the price of soft coal thirty-five to fifty cents a ton.

Five-Cent Royalty

In addition to the pay boost, the concessions include a welfare fund financed by tapping coal production for a royalty of five cents a ton, and administered jointly by labor and management.

Other concessions:

A hospital fund paid for and administered by the miners, more vacation pay, extra safety precautions, a survey looking toward improvement of medical, hospital, sanitary and housing facilities, compliance by all mine managers with state workmen's compensation laws even though the laws are not compulsory.

For the individual miner, his new base pay will be $1.85 an hour instead of $1. He will work nine hours a day, get the $1.85 for seven hours, and time and a half for the other two hours.

That means his take home pay will be $1.85 more a day, even if he works only one day a week.

If the miner is paid on a tonnage or some other basis, he still will get a $1.85 a day raise.

The normal work-week will be five nine-hour days. The operator can require a sixth day's work but will have to pay time and a half for it.

GI's Wife, in Six-Month Coma, Gives Birth to Apparently Normal Child

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 29—(AP)—A 24-year-old wife of a soldier in a condition of "suspended death" for six months gave birth to an apparently normal child, her physician reported today.

Mrs. Leland Wenger's four-pound daughter spent its first day in an oxygen tent at Allentown hospital. Attendans said the baby is in good condition.

The mother, daughter of David Marblestone, San Francisco, suffered a brain injury last November when she and her husband, a corporal then stationed at Indiantown Gap, Pa., were in an automobile collision.

Still in critical condition, she had been fed through a stomach tube and until recently physicians had been anxious about chances of the child surviving. However, delivery was normal after rapid labor. No anesthetics were used.

Dr. Gabriel A. Schwartz said Mrs. Wenger is not in a coma but that only vital organs of her body independent of the brain appear to function and maintain life.

The condition was caused by severe multiple brain hemorrhages, he said, which resulted in complete paralysis of her limbs and facial and throat muscles so that she cannot move, talk, eat or even smile.

However, Dr. Schwartz observed that the mother apparently is semi-conscious because her eyes move, tears sometimes overflow them and they indicated occasional recognition of visitors.

It is impossible to determine if she knew of the birth, reported the physician. He had been awaiting arrival of the child before attempting any specific treatment or operation and expressed belief Mrs. Wenger might continue indefinitely in her present condition.

Wenger was advised of his daughter's birth by telephone at Walter Reed hospital in Washington where he has been a patient because of a leg injury suffered in the accident. His joy was tempered by his anxiety for his wife.

Ticket Headed by Baldwin Has New Attorney General Candidate

BALTIMORE, May 29 (AP) — The Maryland Democratic political campaign took a new turn today with the announcement of a change in the slate headed by Rep. H. Streett Baldwin, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

Baldwin headquarters disclosed that J. DeWeese Carter, Denton, had abandoned his candidacy for the attorney general nomination in the Democratic primary, and that he had been replaced by House Speaker John S. White, Hyattsville.

Carter's decision was attributed to fatigue resulting from his army service in the Philippines. He was en route home for his discharge when his name was entered in the contest by a relative holding a power of attorney. The certificate of candidacy was filed just before the deadline, April 15.

In a letter to Baldwin, which the organization made public, Carter said that since his separation from army service his physical condition had prohibited his active participation in the campaign. In justice to the Baldwin ticket, he said, he felt he should withdraw.

Carter's retirement was too late to keep his name off the primary ballots, however.

White, who has represented Prince George's county in the Legislature since 1935, was already in the running for attorney general but was unattached to an organization ticket.

The Baldwin ticket now consists of Rep. Baldwin, for governor; State Sen. John B. Funk, Frederick, for comptroller, and White for attorney general.

The composition of the principal slates opposed, is as follows:

William Preston Lane, Jr., Washington county, for governor; James J. Lacy, Baltimore, for comptroller, and Hall Hammond, Baltimore county, for attorney general.

J. Millard Tawes, Somerset county, for governor; Charles H. Roloson, Jr., Baltimore, for comptroller, and W. Earle Cobey, Allegany county, for attorney general.

Another development today was the announcement by a group known as the Veterans' Political Organization that it was supporting Baldwin for governor. W. Rae Dempsey is chairman and William F. C. Marlow, secretary-treasurer, of the organization.

the first fifteen days of May, 1946.

In no case will the new price be less than sixty-three cents a pound and in no case more than seventy-seven cents a pound of butter fat in major production areas of the north central states.

3. Establishment of ceiling prices on the sale of fluid milk for manufacturing purposes. This will be done early in June.

This will be based on the paying price at the November, 1945, average, plus forty cents for milk of 3.5 per cent butter fat.

4. An increase of thirty-five cents a case in manufacturers' ceiling prices for evaporated milk. The increase will be approximately one cent a can at retail, and is in addition to a like increase ordered a few days ago by OPA.

5. Manufacturers of ice cream will be authorized to reduce the butter fat content of their product up to 2.5 percent without price reductions. Those who reduce their use of butter fat won't be allowed to increase the volume of their ice cream production.

6. Shipments and sale of cream will be limited in order to insure "more normal use in all dairy products rather than allow it to be concentrated in a few."

7. Issuance of orders, effective July 1, limiting the amount of butterfat used in the manufacture of cream cheese and soups to the amounts used during the corresponding quarter of the twelve-month period ending July 31, 1945.

areas" developed as part of the veterans' housing program;

Should "Benefit" Labor

Those which will provide urgently needed veterans' educational facilities;

Those which will have "no impact whatsoever" on the housing program;

And essential and no-deferrable maintenance and repairs.

CPA said it recognized that arbitrary use of the two-thirds rule in each district "might result in inequalities between districts." For this reason the agency authorized its regional directors to take into account exceptional circumstances and to vary the reduction rate between districts if necessary.

Regional directors must, however, maintain the two-thirds slow-down rate for their regions.

"The slowdown on authorizations generally will benefit construction labor, not harm it," Small said. "By holding construction starts to the rate of availability of materials, more continuous work opportunities should result."

Wyatt's new inspection program requires builders of veterans' housing to file detailed plans for proposed homes with the Federal Housing Administration.

Up to now they had to submit only rough floor plans and a front elevation drawing.

Miners Get $1.85

Miners have been on a six-day week and have been getting $63.50 for it. At the new scale they would get $75.25 for six days and $59.25 for five.

ODT Order Is Revoked

One specific result of the conclusion of the strike was the revocation by the Office of Defense Transportation of a coal conservation order requiring a twenty-five per cent cut in coal-burning passenger service by rail.

The signing of the contract marked the end of a dispute that had cost hundreds of millions of dollors in direct and indirect losses plus some 90,000,000 tons of coal output.

The Solid Fuels Administration estimated roughly and informally that:

Miners lost around $160,000,000 in wages since the strike began April 1, operators lost $278,000,000 in sales and at least $14,000,000 in profits, railroads lost some $178,000,000 they would have received for hauling coal.

It was exactly 4:07 p. m., EST, when the strike was settled. But throughout the day here had been a wave of forecasts an agreement was on the way.

Lewis and Krug went to the White House shortly before 4 o'clock. There were discussions for a few minutes, then photographers got a hurry-up call to the presidential office.

Krug Announces Agreement

They came clattering out, gasping to reporters that "They signed it."

"Signed what?" newsmen demanded.

"Don't know," a cameraman replied, "but they signed something."

Reporters still didn't have the big story. But a couple of moments later Krug and Lewis walked into the lobby and the interior secretary announced:

"A contract has just been signed."

Lewis stood calmly by his side, then moved outside to the White House steps to declare:

"A contract has just been executed in the White House covering the bituminous coal mines.

"This settles for the period of government operation of the mines all the questions and issues.

Instructions have been issued to the men to return to work immediately.

"This action will assure an ample supply of coal for essential needs of the country."

Standing at Lewis's side, Krug declared:

"I'm sure Mr. Lewis will agree the contract is fair to the operators and the men alike. It's too bad we didn't have it two months ago."

Anthracite Strike Looms

As the brushy-browed UMW leader moved to send the soft coal strikers back to the pits, his 76,000 anthracite miners prepared to walk out at midnight tomorrow.

The AFL-UMW anthracite negotiators, in stalled conferences in New York, notified operators they would not extend their contract, which expires tomorrow, and would call a work stoppage.

Grave as this new threat appeared, it could be only a pale echo of the bituminous walkout which seriously stalled reconversion, closed some factories, slowed the railroads, caused dimouts in many cities and — along with the rail strike — cost the nation one-sixth of this year's expected coal production.

Meanwhile the House passed new strike control legislation. It approved and sent to President Truman the Case bill with its sixty-day cooling-off period and a prohibition against employer contributions to union-managed welfare funds.

The soft coal settlement sidestepped this latter ban. The new "welfare and retirement fund" will be managed by three trustees — one named by the union, one by Krug, and the third by the two trustees previously named.

The other fund — a "medical and hospital fund" — will be financed by deductions from the miners' pay as in the past, but control will pass from the operators to trustees named by Lewis.

Standard Vacation Period

Besides the wage and welfare fund provisions, the contract covers these points:

Vacation pay—A vacation period from June 29 to July 8 inclusive will be standard for the industry, with payment of $100 instead of the $75 paid in the past.

Safety—the government will put in effect a safety code issued by the bureau of mines within thirty days. The union will appoint a mine safety committee in each mine to report dangerous conditions.

Workmen's compensation and occupational disease—Each mine manager will comply with state compensation laws, whether elective or compulsory.

Medical survey—Krug will order a survey of hospital, medical, sanitary and housing facilities, to determine what improvements are needed to give mine workers facilities "conforming to recognized American standards."

Dispute settlement—Provision is made for correction of grievance procedure where such procedure does not measure up to prevailing industry standards.

Discharge cases—Cases involving the discharge of workers must be handled within five days.

Fines—No fines or penalties may be imposed without authorization by Krug; the proceeds go into the medical and hospital fund.

Supervisors—On the old and bitter issue of which foremen and supervisors are exempt from unionization, Krug will be guided by decisions of the National Labor Relations Board.

Retroactivity—The wage provisions are retroactive to May 22, the date of federal seizure.

Some officials raised the question whether the National Wage Stabilization Board could approve one clause of the wage settlement. This is the provision that all miners get the $1.85-a-day increase, whether "employed by the day, tonnage or footage rate."

Most "outside workers—perhaps fifteen per cent of all miners—work less than nine hours a day. Under the $1.85 guarantee, these would be getting a higher percentage increase than the rest—an increase which might not fit into the government's wage-price formula.

Truman "Has Failed

Labor Board, scrapping of the War Production Board's system of allocations and priorities, the ending of meat rationing, "mismanagement of America's treasury of food," and scrapping of "the nation's wartime tax structure."

"The history of foreign relations since Mr. Truman became president is one of deterioration and decline," he said, "and the destruction of everything we had achieved before."

At the Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks conferences, Morgenthau said, "the spirit which Franklin D. Roosevelt himself breathed" into them made a new concept of relationships between men and nations, something akin to a "new religion."

"All that is lost now," he continued. "It is hate that fills the international atmosphere today." He said United States delegates to international conferences attend them "with the atomic bomb bulging from their hip pockets—a symbol of what can happen to anybody who incurs our slightest displeasure."

Morgenthau said: "Threats have replaced persuasion, and hatred has replaced brotherly love. Destiny, not the electorate, called him (Mr. Truman) to receive the torch of progress from President Roosevelt and he has failed his calling."

Mrs. Ida Rath Dies

WESTERNPORT, May 29—Mrs. Ida Rath, 79, died this evening at the home of her son, the Rev. Virgil O. Rath, pastor of Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness church, 52 Second street, Piedmont, W. Va.

She had been bedfast for five weeks and had made her home with the Rev. Mr. Rath since February.

Mrs. Rath was born near Glencoe, Pa., a daughter of the late Joseph and Eunice Smock. Her husband, George Rath, died May 31, 1939. She attended Pentecostal Holiness church in Piedmont.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Olive McEntyre, Geneva, Pa., and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Fullum, Centerville, Pa.; Mrs. Nellie Batchlett, Waterford, Pa.; Mrs. Lillie Steele, Warren, Pa., and Mrs. Wilson Dunn, Meadville, Pa.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Graham funeral home, Sheakleyville, Mercer county, Pa., by the Rev. Glenn Bailey, pastor of Lonaconing Pentecostal Holiness church. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, Greenwood, Pa.

Buses Will Operate To Constitution Park

Bus service from Baltimore street to Constitution Park will be provided today by the Potomac Edison Company, according to an announcement made yesterday. The service will start at noon and from noon until 2 p. m. buses will leave Baltimore street every half hour and start the return trip from the park fifteen minutes later.

Starting at 5:15 p. m. service will be resumed on a half hour basis until 7:45 and then two buses will be provided at 10 p. m. and 10:30 p. m.

Schedules will be worked out later for the balance of the summer park season, John F. Rodman, operating manager of the Potomac Edison, said.

Coalition Kills

that the coal dispute will soon be settled, I urge that we proceed with moderation."

The vote came shortly after the government announced a settlement of the coal strike, which with the railroad tie-up that ended last Saturday, had aroused clamorous demands for legislative action.

House Approves Case Bill

In mid-afternoon, the House accepted Senate amendments to the Case labor bill and sped it to the White House by a vote of 230 to 106. This is designed to be permanent legislation and the president has asked that congress undertake a study before taking long-range steps.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told reporters tonight he may ask the president to veto the Case bill. He said that if analysis failed to show any "improvement" over versions previously passed in House and Senate, he will recommend a veto.

The Case bill provides, among other things, for sixty-day cooling off periods before strikes, lawsuits against unions which violate contracts, penalties for interference with goods moving in interstate commerce and a ban on employer contributions to welfare funds administered solely by unions.

This last was aimed at John L. Lewis's welfare fund demands, but the coal settlement announced today provides that the fund to be financed by mine operators shall not be administered by the union exclusively, but jointly.

Barkley Announces Coal Agreement

The coal strike settlement was announced to the Senate by Majority Leader Barkley shortly before it voted on the president's striker-draft proposal.

The vote on the Case bill found 133 Republicans and ninety-seven Democrats lining up for it, while ninety-one Democrats, thirteen Republicans and two minor party members were against.

The fact that President Truman called last Saturday for a study by a joint congressional committee before permanent labor legislation is passed led to predictions of a veto, but some lawmakers expressed the view that Mr. Truman might sign the bill.

It would take a two-thirds vote of both houses to override a veto.

Radcliffe Says

However, Louis Goldblatt, secretary of the "Committee for Maritime Unity" which comprises the seven unions, said today they believed they would "have the support of the AFL unions' rank and file."

The seven unions include one independent and six CIO affiliates.

Schwellenbach sought a formula to prevent the strike, which, at its worst, could stop shipping all around the country, cripple the merchant marine and impede relief exports.

Joseph Curran, president of the maritime union, told a reporter that unless new proposals came from the shipowners at the conference the situation would be "difficult."

The NMU was supported by six other unions in seeking an increase of thirty per cent in pay, an eight-hour day, overtime adjustments and retroactive pay. Their total membership is claimed at 200,000 on 3,100 ships. The government owns two-thirds of them. Two of the unions have contracts but are pledged to assist the other five in event of a strike.

Moorefield Postal Employe Arrested

WHEELING, W. Va., May 29—Walter H. Wood, 40, a postal employe, of Moorefield, W. Va., arrested for allegedly tampering with the mail, waived a preliminary hearing and was held for court action under $1,000 bond when arraigned by U. S. Commissioner Nell Moran.

Wood was taken into custody by federal authorities last Thursday and brought here by U. S. Deputy Marshal Del Gainer. He is specifically charged with "opening a letter, secreting and destroying it." The offense is alleged to have occurred on May 3.

The defendant furnished a cash bond and was released.

In no case will the new price be less than sixty-three cents a pound and in no case more than seventy-seven cents a pound of butter fat in major production areas of the north central states.

3. Establishment of ceiling prices on the sale of fluid milk for manufacturing purposes. This will be done early in June.

This will be based on the paying price at the November, 1945, average, plus forty cents for milk of 3.5 per cent butter fat.

4. An increase of thirty-five cents a case in manufacturers' ceiling prices for evaporated milk. The increase will be approximately one cent a can at retail, and is in addition to a like increase ordered a few days ago by OPA.

5. Manufacturers of ice cream will be authorized to reduce the butter fat content of their product up to 2.5 percent without price reductions. Those who reduce their use of butter fat won't be allowed to increase the volume of their ice cream production.

6. Shipments and sale of cream will be limited in order to insure more normal use in all dairy products rather than allow it to be concentrated in a few."

7. Issuance of orders, effective July 1, limiting the amount of butterfat used in the manufacture of cream cheese and soups to the amounts used during the corresponding quarter of the twelve-month period ending July 31, 1945.

areas" developed as part of the veterans' housing program;

Should "Benefit" Labor

Those which will provide urgently needed veterans' educational facilities;

Those which will have "no impact whatsoever" on the housing program;

And essential and no-deferrable maintenance and repairs.

CPA said it recognized that arbitrary use of the two-thirds rule in each district "might result in inequalities between districts." For this reason the agency authorized its regional directors to take into account exceptional circumstances and to vary the reduction rate between districts if necessary.

Regional directors must, however, maintain the two-thirds slow-down rate for their regions.

"The slowdown on authorizations generally will benefit construction labor, not harm it," Small said. "By holding construction starts to the rate of availability of materials, more continuous work opportunities should result."

Wyatt's new inspection program requires builders of veterans' housing to file detailed plans for proposed homes with the Federal Housing Administration.

Up to now they had to submit only rough floor plans and a front elevation drawing.

Miners Get $1.85

Miners have been on a six-day week and have been getting $63.50 for it. At the new scale they would get $75.25 for six days and $59.25 for five.

ODT Order Is Revoked

One specific result of the conclusion of the strike was the revocation by the Office of Defense Transportation of a coal conservation order requiring a twenty-five per cent cut in coal-burning passenger service by rail.

The signing of the contract marked the end of a dispute that had cost hundreds of millions of dollars in direct and indirect losses plus some 90,000,000 tons of coal output.

The Solid Fuels Administration estimated roughly and informally that:

Miners lost around $160,000,000 in wages since the strike began April 1, operators lost $278,000,000 in sales and at least $14,000,000 in profits, railroads lost some $178,000,000 they would have received for hauling coal.

It was exactly 4:07 p. m., EST, when the strike was settled. But throughout the day here had been a wave of forecasts an agreement was on the way.

Lewis and Krug went to the White House shortly before 4 o'clock. There were discussions for a few minutes, then photographers got a hurry-up call to the presidential office.

Krug Announces Agreement

They came clattering out, gasping to reporters that "They signed it."

"Signed what?" newsmen demanded.

"Don't know," a cameraman replied, "but they signed something."

Reporters still didn't have the big story. But a couple of moments later Krug and Lewis walked into the lobby and the interior secretary announced:

"A contract has just been signed."

Lewis stood calmly by his side, then moved outside to the White House steps to declare:

"A contract has just been executed in the White House covering the bituminous coal mines.

"This settles for the period of government operation of the mines all the questions and issues.

Instructions have been issued to the men to return to work immediately.

"This action will assure an ample supply of coal for essential needs of the country."

Standing at Lewis's side, Krug declared:

"I'm sure Mr. Lewis will agree the contract is fair to the operators and the men alike. It's too bad we didn't have it two months ago."

Anthracite Strike Looms

As the brushy-browed UMW leader moved to send the soft coal strikers back to the pits, his 76,000 anthracite miners prepared to walk out at midnight tomorrow.

The AFL-UMW anthracite negotiators, in stalled conferences in New York, notified operators they would not extend their contract, which expires tomorrow, and would call a work stoppage.

Grave as this new threat appeared, it could be only a pale echo of the bituminous walkout which seriously stalled reconversion, closed some factories, slowed the railroads, caused dimouts in many cities and — along with the rail strike — cost the nation one-sixth of this year's expected coal production.

Meanwhile the House passed new strike control legislation. It approved and sent to President Truman the Case bill with its sixty-day cooling-off period and a prohibition against employer contributions to union-managed welfare funds.

The soft coal settlement sidestepped this latter ban. The new "welfare and retirement fund" will be managed by three trustees — one named by the union, one by Krug, and the third by the two trustees previously named.

The other fund — a "medical and hospital fund" — will be financed by deductions from the miners' pay as in the past, but control will pass from the operators to trustees named by Lewis.

Standard Vacation Period

Besides the wage and welfare fund provisions, the contract covers these points:

Vacation pay—A vacation period from June 29 to July 8 inclusive will be standard for the industry, with payment of $100 instead of the $75 paid in the past.

Safety—the government will put in effect a safety code issued by the bureau of mines within thirty days. The union will appoint a mine safety committee in each mine to report dangerous conditions.

Workmen's compensation and occupational disease—Each mine manager will comply with state compensation laws, whether elective or compulsory.

Medical survey—Krug will order a survey of hospital, medical, sanitary and housing facilities, to determine what improvements are needed to give mine workers facilities "conforming to recognized American standards."

Dispute settlement—Provision is made for correction of grievance procedure where such procedure does not measure up to prevailing industry standards.

Discharge cases—Cases involving the discharge of workers must be handled within five days.

Fines—No fines or penalties may be imposed without authorization by Krug; the proceeds go into the medical and hospital fund.

Supervisors—On the old and bitter issue of which foremen and supervisors are exempt from unionization, Krug will be guided by decisions of the National Labor Relations Board.

Retroactivity — The wage provisions are retroactive to May 22, the date of federal seizure.

Some officials raised the question whether the National Wage Stabilization Board could approve one clause of the wage settlement. This is the provision that all miners get the $1.85-a-day increase, whether "employed by the day, tonnage or footage rate."

Most "outside workers—perhaps fifteen per cent of all miners—work less than nine hours a day. Under the $1.85 guarantee, these would be getting a higher percentage increase than the rest—an increase which might not fit into the government's wage-price formula.

Truman "Has Failed

Labor Board, scrapping of the War Production Board's system of allocations and priorities, the ending of meat rationing, "mismanagement of America's treasury of food," and scrapping of "the nation's wartime tax structure."

"The history of foreign relations since Mr. Truman became president is one of deterioration and decline," he said, "and the destruction of everything we had achieved before."

At the Bretton Woods and Dumbarton Oaks conferences, Morgenthau said, "the spirit which Franklin D. Roosevelt himself breathed" into them made a new concept of relationships between men and nations, something akin to a "new religion."

"All that is lost now," he continued. "It is hate that fills the international atmosphere today." He said United States delegates to international conferences attend them "with the atomic bomb bulging from their hip pockets—a symbol of what can happen to anybody who incurs our slightest displeasure."

Morgenthau said: "Threats have replaced persuasion, and hatred has replaced brotherly love. Destiny, not the electorate, called him (Mr. Truman) to receive the torch of progress from President Roosevelt and he has failed his calling."

Mrs. Ida Rath Dies

WESTERNPORT, May 29—Mrs. Ida Rath, 79, died this evening at the home of her son, the Rev. Virgil O. Rath, pastor of Piedmont Pentecostal Holiness church, 52 Second street, Piedmont, W. Va.

She had been bedfast for five weeks and had made her home with the Rev. Mr. Rath since February.

Mrs. Rath was born near Glencoe, Pa., a daughter of the late Joseph and Eunice Smock. Her husband, George Rath, died May 31, 1939. She attended Pentecostal Holiness church in Piedmont.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Olive McEntyre, Geneva, Pa., and four sisters, Mrs. Mary Fullum, Centerville, Pa.; Mrs. Nellie Batchlett, Waterford, Pa.; Mrs. Lillie Steele, Warren, Pa., and Mrs. Wilson Dunn, Meadville, Pa.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Graham funeral home, Sheakleyville, Mercer county, Pa., by the Rev. Glenn Bailey, pastor of Lonaconing Pentecostal Holiness church. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, Greenwood, Pa.

Buses Will Operate To Constitution Park

Bus service from Baltimore street to Constitution Park will be provided today by the Potomac Edison Company, according to an announcement made yesterday. The service will start at noon and from noon until 2 p. m. buses will leave Baltimore street every half hour and start the return trip from the park fifteen minutes later.

Starting at 5:15 p. m. service will be resumed on a half hour basis until 7:45 and then two buses will be provided at 10 p. m. and 10:30 p. m.

Schedules will be worked out later for the balance of the summer park season, John F. Rodman, operating manager of the Potomac Edison, said.

Coalition Kills

that the coal dispute will soon be settled, I urge that we proceed with moderation."

The vote came shortly after the government announced a settlement of the coal strike, which with the railroad tie-up that ended last Saturday, had aroused clamorous demands for legislative action.

House Approves Case Bill

In mid-afternoon, the House accepted Senate amendments to the Case labor bill and sped it to the White House by a vote of 230 to 106. This is designed to be permanent legislation and the president has asked that congress undertake a study before taking long-range steps.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach told reporters tonight he may ask the president to veto the Case bill. He said that if analysis failed to show any "improvement" over versions previously passed in House and Senate, he will recommend a veto.

The Case bill provides, among other things, for sixty-day cooling off periods before strikes, lawsuits against unions which violate contracts, penalties for interference with goods moving in interstate commerce and a ban on employer contributions to welfare funds administered solely by unions.

This last was aimed at John L. Lewis's welfare fund demands, but the coal settlement announced today provides that the fund to be financed by mine operators shall not be administered by the union exclusively, but jointly.

Barkley Announces Coal Agreement

The coal strike settlement was announced to the Senate by Majority Leader Barkley shortly before it voted on the president's striker-draft proposal.

The vote on the Case bill found 133 Republicans and ninety-seven Democrats lining up for it, while ninety-one Democrats, thirteen Republicans and two minor party members were against.

The fact that President Truman called last Saturday for a study by a joint congressional committee before permanent labor legislation is passed led to predictions of a veto, but some lawmakers expressed the view that Mr. Truman might sign the bill.

It would take a two-thirds vote of both houses to override a veto.

Radcliffe Says

However, Louis Goldblatt, secretary of the "Committee for Maritime Unity" which comprises the seven unions, said today they believed they would "have the support of the AFL unions' rank and file."

The seven unions include one independent and six CIO affiliates.

Schwellenbach sought a formula to prevent the strike, which, at its worst, could stop shipping all around the country, cripple the merchant marine and impede relief exports.

Joseph Curran, president of the maritime union, told a reporter that unless new proposals came from the shipowners at the conference the situation would be "difficult."

The NMU was supported by six other unions in seeking an increase of thirty per cent in pay, an eight-hour day, overtime adjustments and retroactive pay. Their total membership is claimed at 200,000 on 3,100 ships. The government owns two-thirds of them. Two of the unions have contracts but are pledged to assist the other five in event of a strike.

Moorefield Postal Employe Arrested

WHEELING, W. Va., May 29—Walter H. Wood, 40, a postal employe, of Moorefield, W. Va., arrested for allegedly tampering with the mail, waived a preliminary hearing and was held for court action under $1,000 bond when arraigned by U. S. Commissioner Nell Moran.

Wood was taken into custody by federal authorities last Thursday and brought here by U. S. Deputy Marshal Del Gainer. He is specifically charged with "opening a letter, secreting and destroying it." The offense is alleged to have occurred on May 3.

The defendant furnished a cash bond and was released.

Red Cross Clarifies Order on Transfer Of Army Personnel

The local American Red Cross office has received a number of inquiries about assignment of personnel in the armed forces, where one or more members of a family have been killed in action, died in service, or died as a result of wounds.

Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary said yesterday she has made inquiry and received an official ruling on the question.

The letter explains that the U. S. War Department has issued an order which provides that men who have lost a father or brother in service may apply for service within the continental United States, and need not serve out of the country.

Members of a family, of which one or more members has been killed or died in service, may make application for transfer back to the States, the order explains. Such application must be made by the soldier who wishes the transfer and must be sent through regular channels.

The order does not apply to officers of the Regular Army, or to enlisted men of the Regular Army serving under an unexpired enlistment contracted after the date of the order, or February, 1, 1946.

Further information regarding this ruling is available at the Red Cross office for members of interested families, Mrs. Dean said yesterday.

Red Cross Clarifies Order on Transfer Of Army Personnel

The local American Red Cross office has received a number of inquiries about assignment of personnel in the armed forces, where one or more members of a family have been killed in action, died in service, or died as a result of wounds.

Mrs. Louise C. Dean, home service secretary said yesterday she has made inquiry and received an official ruling on the question.

The letter explains that the U. S. War Department has issued an order which provides that men who have lost a father or brother in service may apply for service within the continental United States, and need not serve out of the country.

Members of a family, of which one or more members has been killed or died in service, may make application for transfer back to the States, the order explains. Such application must be made by the soldier who wishes the transfer and must be sent through regular channels.

The order does not apply to officers of the Regular Army, or to enlisted men of the Regular Army serving under an unexpired enlistment contracted after the date of the order, or February, 1, 1946.

Further information regarding this ruling is available at the Red Cross office for members of interested families, Mrs. Dean said yesterday.

What Should Be Said This Memorial Day

AMERICA PAUSES on this one day of the year in tribute to the valiant dead of all its wars. This silent company of heroes lies scattered over a thousand fields from Gettysburg, Shiloh, San Juan hill and St. Mihiel to Normandy, Okinawa, Anzio and the ocean deeps off Midway.

Their role is done, their battle fought, their victory won. They bought this nation's greatness and its people's freedom with their lives. If this generation does not preserve the heritage, no blame can attach to these heroes.

What shall we say to them on this Memorial day? How shall we honor them? What can we do to repay the sacrifices of these men? Shall we tell them that this nation has become decadent, that it is now ruled by mobs?

Abraham Lincoln gave us the answer for all time on the field of Gettysburg in the closing months of another great war. It is to dedicate ourselves "to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion."

They entrusted the future to our hands. This is part of that future. What are we waiting for?

A Splendid Citizen Is Taken from Us

CUMBERLAND and the tri-state area have suffered a grievous loss in the sudden passing of John I. Vandegrift, building contractor, and the whole area, which has long appreciated his worth as a businessman and citizen, mourns accordingly.

Mr. Vandegrift was a builder who constructed numerous structures throughout this section which will long remain as monuments to his splendid ability as such. While he built many dwellings, his chief effort was given in the construction of the larger public, commercial and industrial buildings, which play such an important part in the growth and upbuilding of their communities. In his work he took pride and he could well do so as these products of his hand and mind were outstanding.

But John Vandegrift was more than a builder. He was an active and worthy member of the great body of worthwhile citizenship without which those monuments he erected would not fully supply the social and economic progress for which they were designed. He gave his full share and more in civic enterprise, and contributed much in the fraternal and religious fields as well as in the cause of charity. Of particular note was his active participation in the work of the chamber of commerce.

Through all his activities, there glowed a warm, kindly personality in which there was not the slightest trace of smugness and which endeared him to the thousands with whom he came in contact and who loved him for it. Peace be to his ashes.

OPA Shearing Appears Likely

NONPARTISAN SURVEYS of Senate sentiment indicate that this branch of Congress will put approximately the same restrictions on OPA that the House of Representatives did, restrictions that caused Washington bureaucrats to rise up on their hind legs and howl to heaven that they were about to be deprived of their totalitarian power over business and the easy money they are taking from the taxpayers.

The strike mess has robbed left wing agitation for continuation of the OPA of its potency. Even those congressmen who have constantly seemed to be crazy are beginning to worry. Occasionally the horrible thought intrudes into their skulls that perhaps the people will vote against chaos this fall.

After the House voted for partial and gradual dropping of OPA curbs, most members went home and discovered that sentiment there was with them. Mail of senators who have been speaking against the OPA is running as much as ten to one against letting the OPA continue as it has. There is no longer any doubt that inequitable OPA policies are holding back production. The OPA, it seems, cannot even revise a price on a much needed product in less than three or four months. This may be because so many OPA flunkies are on the air extolling the virtues of bureaucracy.

Congress created the OPA and it is up to Congress to reform it. Congress certainly would be justified in writing into any new OPA appropriations a clause forbidding the employment by the outfit of any propagandists for OPA.

Statesmanship With a Lesson

THE HOPE that springs eternal in the human breast can be assigned as the reason why Senator Carter Glass did not retire from his senatorial duties when illness incapacitated him for so long a period. Possessed of great mental vitality, he undoubtedly believed all along that he would recover sufficiently to resume active duty. This, in all charity, excuses him for allowing his seat to be vacant during that period.

Nevertheless, the senior senator from Virginia, who has passed away with all the honors and respect of a real statesman, is generally mourned throughout the nation without regard to partianship. He was generally beloved for his staunch integrity, his sincerity, his independence, his love of truth and his unswerving patriotism. His colleague, Senator Byrd, well said that "his character, carved ont of unblemished granite, was composed of truth and loyalty and sincerity that hates deceit and detests a lie."

Senator Glass was from the South and, of course, a Democrat but his partianship never descended to the vote-getting level and was ever kept in abeyance for the welfare of his country and its people regardless of such considerations. There wree numerous times when he departed from the course of his party and its other leaders, notably when he differed from President Roosevelt over the New Deal's fiscal policies and said so vigorously. It was his vigorous independence and hatred of intolerance that enabled him to render such magnificent public service in various capacities, a service that distintly benefited his country and won him such universal regard and continued support.

The career of this public servant thus furnishes a lesson for others in public life that may well be heeded. It was a career more of the stature of statesmanship rather than mere good service.

Arrogant Labor Leaders Can't Learn the Lesson

THE CONTINUED ARROGANCE of unabashed and unruly labor leaders such as those carrying on at Rochester, N. Y., Detroit and other places along with James Caesar Petrillo, head of the Musicians' union, and Bridges, Curran and other pro-Communists who are fostering a world-wide shipping strike, lends emphasis, if any were needed, to the need for a revision of the basic labor relations laws, and for some such emergency legislation as that advocated by President Truman. These leaders, still drunk with the power conferred upon them and repeatedly confirmed, strangely have failed to heed the unmistakable warning that has been given them by the president and Congress. They are thus doing organiged labor uncalculable harm.

Similarly misguided are those in the Congress who are opposing all efforts to remedy the deplorable labor situation. They are pinning their hopes first on defeating every move to correct an intolerable condition of affairs and secondly upon muddling the whole movement to such an extent that they will invite a veto from President Truman. But it is almost impossible to conceive that President Truman would go that far—an absurdity that he should seek the drastic powers that he has sought to cope with the national emergency and then reject what is likely to be a much milder and yet more fundamental measure.

The irresponsible labor racketeers have gone entirely too far. They have invited the lesson which is now to be learned, and it is incredible that they cannot perceive and heed it.

Whitney Threat Calls for Action, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 29—Nobody in history has ever publicly threatened a president of the United States with defeat at the polls by the spending of money.

When A. F. Whitney, railroad union chief, says he and his union will spend $47,000,000 to defeat President Truman for re-election, it is tantamount to declaring that a president can be beaten by money spent in influencing voters. This in itself is a strange accusation to make against the American electorate but it is stranger still when used as a threat against a chief executive. For what it means is that if the next president happens to be someone other than Mr. Truman he must be careful to shape his policies so as not to offend the groups which have spent $47,000,000 or more to win an election for him. If the Whitney threat should materalize, it will be up to the next Republican nominee to repudiate any such support from the very beginning.

Note for Congress

The idea that money can win elections is widely held and yet both political parties and all the expenses of state campaigns would hardly reach $20,000,000 in a presidential camapign year. To offer to spend $47,000,000, therefore, is something unheard of in American politics and it would be surprising if the Congress failed to take note of what is being planned. Incidentally, the Whitney statement included a threat to defeat members of Congress by spending $2,500,000.

Is the American labor union movement just a political adventure after all—an effort to get power enough to override government authority? Certainly up to now it had been believed that labor union dues and assessments were contributed for the direct benefit of the members and not as political war chests.

Statue Evaded

The labor unions are collecting billions of dollars annually and if they have the right to use these funds to coerce government or to elect representatives who will do their bidding, then Congress has been neglectful in not passing stringent laws prohibiting the use of money in such large sums to influence elections. Corporations have been forbidden to use their money to make political contributions. Unions are restrained, too, under a wartime statute, from using funds in political campagins but the Democratic administration in the last presidential campagn calmly construed the law technically to allow money to be used in certain cases notwithstanding the statute.

Criticism Unjustified

The right to paralyze the nation's communication system does not exist and no amount of criticism of Mr. Truman for his devotion to duty as he saw it will ever justify what the Whitney-Johnston policy did to the people of the United States last week. Instead of voicing indignation, labor union chiefs who are now denouncing the president should be saying that the labor union movement disavows the extremes to which the two railroad chiefs went.

Unfortunate it appears that the various unions which are siding with the Whitney-Johnston policy do believe it was right to stop the trains and the distribution of food for this country and the starving millions abroad. No more conspicious example of a misguided fanaticism in behalf of any cause has been given in recent years than by these union partisans.

Election Influenced

There are at least 50,000,000 persons gainfully employed today. Of these 14,000,000 are members of unions. The other 36,000,000 and a considerable part of the 14,000,000 resent the misuse of power by union organizations to injure the public interest. That same 36,000,000 or more will be found to be part of the dominant majority in any election where the issue to preserve the nation's health and safety as against those who believe in the right to use economic force to further their own ends regardless of the damage done to the public.

Mr. Whitney and Mr. Johnston owe an apology to the American people for what they did last week. When they have admitted their wrong they will be in a far better position to argue the merits of the working rules and other items for which they may have had a better case than they made by their rash action in stopping te trains of the nation.

MAPS MINE ACTION

COMMANDER GEORGE E. SLOCUM, U.S.N., sent to Pittsburgh, Pa., to see that President Truman's mine seizure orders were carried out, is shown mapping details of his job. He said that if the miners fail to return to work, "we'll have the army to back us up."

TODAY WE WALK WITH MEMORIES

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Top Administration Leaders Split On Loan to France, Pearson Asserts

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Top Administration leaders were split wide open over the loan to France during a secret and significant meeting of the National Advisory Council.

Present were Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, chairman; Assistant Secretary of State Will Clayton, Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace, Chairman Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, and William McChesney Martin, head of the Export-Import Bank.

Clayton teed off by proposing that the council approve the $650,000,000 loan. Secretary Wallace said he approved but wanted the record to show that he supported the French loan for economic and not for political purposes.

"I want the record to show," countered Chairman Vinson, "that I favor the loan for good and sufficient reasons, both economic and political."

Up to this point, the meeting was mild. Clayton casually announced that he had checked into the legality of the present French Government and that it was capable of accepting and repaying the loan, regardless of what happened in the June 2 elections. This gave Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles his opening.

"This loan should be considered on economic grounds and economic grounds only," he said with vigor.

"Naturally, our government is interested in political activity in other countries. But, I should very much dislike to have our government accused of undertaking to buy a foreign election. That's the very thing we attacked the Russians for."

Eccles then proposed that the loan be held off until after the French election so as not to appear a coercive measure.

"There are political considerations in every loan," observed Vinson.

"We're concerned with getting countries back on their feet," Eccles shot back, "rather than as to whether the government is socialist, communist or a capitalistic democracy."

Chinese Politics and U. S. Money

At this point Henry Wallace spoke out and said it would be unfortunate if it leaked out to the French people that the United States had any major political considerations in mind in making its loan. This brought a rejoinder from Secretary Vinson.

"The half-billion dollar loan to China was a political loan and we made it on the basis of General Marshall's plea."

"If I had been present," Wallace snapped back, "I would have voted against the China loan."

At this point, the banker from Utah, Marriner Eccles, jumped into the fray again.

"I think it would be very unfortunate," he said, "to make a loan just before an election in order to influence it. Besides, there would be no assurance that it would work out that way. The French might resent the fact that we are trying to influence the election. We learned that lesson the hard way in Latin America."

Then, looking at Assistant Secretary of State Clayton, formerly the world's largest cotton broker, Eccles concluded:

"Suppose the election goes wrong? Would we still give it?" Clayton beat around the bush a moment, but said that the United States probably would still approve some kind of a loan though with more strings attached.

Eccles then moved that the loan be held up until after the election. However, Clayton, having in mind a promise the State Department had already made to the French government, protested.

"We've stalled on this for six weeks already," Clayton said. "We can't stall any longer."

Eccles then moved that the French loan be scaled down to $500,000,000, but was over-ruled.

In the end, the committee approved the entire $650,000,000 credit from the Export-Import Bank, with some side adjustments regarding Lend-Lease.

Rankin Wants Counsel Switch

Now that the Mississippi's rootin-tootin' Congressman John Rankin has $75,000 to spend for his Un-American Activities Committee, he is anxious to ditch Committee Counsel Ernie Adamson. Adamson is the gentleman who aroused public attention when he went on record as against democracy.

"I'm moving Heaven, Hell and high water," Congressman Rankin told a friend the other day, "to get Bob Stripling out of the army. I need him. Adamson has put us in a jam. Stripling is more discreet and his mouth isn't as big as Adamson's."

Robert Stripling, the man Rankin wants to get out of the army, for a long time was counsel to the Dies Committee, and has the unique reputation of being one of the most deferred gentlemen ever to work on Capitol Hill.

For a long time the Dies Committee got Stripling deferred as an essential worker. Finally, in August 1944, his Virginia draft board decided he wasn't so essential after all, and put him in 1-A. However, three times congressmen intervened to prevent his induction. But finally the army caught him. He got in shortly before the end of the war with Germany, and now Congressman Rankin is pulling all sorts of wires to get him out.

Barkley: "OPA Is A Corpse"

As the Senate Banking and Currency committee neared the end of its secret session, at which it virtually killed the OPA, Senator Taft, very much pleased with the day's work, proposed that the special decontrol board created by the committee a day earlier might just as well be abandoned.

"Its work has been done for it," Taft said, referring to the fact that prices were to be removed from meat, poultry and dairy products on June 30, rather than be decontrolled gradually.

Replied Democratic leader Alben Barkley, who fought a valiant though losing battle for price control:

"Oh, well, let's keep the board. As long as you have a corpse, you might as well have pall-bearers."

Capital Chaff

Cordell Hull now is writing his memoirs at his home in Carthage, Tenn., with the aid of Col. Andrew H. Berding, an old Washington newsman . . . In preparation for its southern drive, CIO-PAC is opening a school of political action technique in Washington . . . OPA's Robert R. R. Brooks, one of the administration's top economists, returns to teaching at Williams college next month . . . Presidential court jester George Allen has shed four pounds on a new diet . . . Before going to the Naval hospital with another illness, Senate President Kenneth D. McKellar, number one on the CIO purge list, named a special Senate Election Investigating committee loaded with senators sure to probe the CIO . . . Bob Hannegan will throw his full weight behind ex-Governor Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee, as senatorial candidate against Hannegan's arch enemy, Tom Stewart, when Stewart comes up for re-election. That's one reason why Hannegan backed Cooper's recent appointment as ambassador to Peru.

Emergency Law Is Not Full Remedy, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

Begin by understanding that the president's emergency legislation about strikes is a thing apart. Understand just what it is, and what it is not. It is not a remedy for the labor problem, and does not pretend to be. It applies only to extremely limited kinds of strikes.

For the emergency legislation to apply a strike must be, to quote the president's words, in one of "those few industries" in which a strike "affects the entire economy of the United States." And it must be in an industry "essential . . . to the effective transition from war to peace."

Those are the kinds of strike which the president's emergency legislation would apply to. To illustrate how many and serious are the strikes which the emergency legislation would not apply to, it happens there was a coincidence.

Other Strikes Ignored

At the very moment when the president was requesting his emergency legislation, there was a threat of strike (which has since taken place) in Rochester, N. Y.—beginning with a dispute between city employees and the Public Works department, and accompanied by threat of strike by all unions, both CIO and AFL, in the private industries of the city. Such a strike would paralyze Rochester locally as much as the railroad strike paralyzed the country as a whole.

But of that local Rochester strike the president's emergency legislation would take no notice. Nor would it take notice of hundreds of local strikes and threatened strikes throughout the country, harassing hundreds of businesses and communities, embrolling tens of thousands of workers.

Not the Answer

No, the president's emergency legislation is not an answer to the country's labor problem, and does not purport to be. In addition to the limitation of scope, there is limitatin of time—the emergency bill itself provides that it shall expire six months after formal termination of the state of war. Finally, the president's emergency legislation does not prevent strikes from starting, nor attempt to. It comes into effect only after a strike has taken place, and has gone so far that the government decides to take over the struck industry. The procedure and penalties of the legislation apply only to a condition in which the government has taken over.

Plainly the president's emergency legislation is not the answer to the country's labor problem. The president expressly said it is not. And plainly an answer is needed.

An attempt at answer has been written. It is called the Case bill, and this is to be looked upon as a thing separate from the president's emergency legislation.

Several Aspects Treaded

The Case bill deals with several aspects of labor relations, including mediation, "cooling off" periods, secondary strikes, liability of unions for breach of contract, fact-finding bodies, foremen's unions, equality of obligation of unions and employers to bargain collectively.

The Case bill deals with these subjects. The way it deals with some of them may or may not be the best possible. The bill as a whole may be short of adequate. But presumption that it has been carefully written—and certainly that it conforms to public demand—is provided by two facts. It passed the Senate, after two weeks debate, by 49 to 29. And it passed the House by an even larger preponderance, 258 to 155.

The Case bill exists. It is at this moment awaiting adjustment of minor differences in the two versions passed by the respective branches of Congress. Thereafter it will go to the president for signature.

Delay Unwarranted

There is surmise that the president will be reluctant to sign. When he was asking Congress to give him his temporary emergency legislation, he at the same time said there was also need for long-range legislation. But he suggested delay. He said, "the whole subject of labor relations must be studied afresh." He recommended a joint congressional committee to "study the whole problem" and "to report within a period of six months."

Just now six months is a long time. Before it expires, there will be a congressional election, in November. Soon after it expires, and before Congress could have time to act, the present Congress will expire and there will be a new one. What has been about labor legislation would have to begin all over, in a Congress that may be changed by the election. The immediate question is, will the president be willing to cooperate with the legislative body by signing a bill which both branches of that body have passed by large majorities?

Praise Where Praise Is Due

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

He who praises another enriches himself far more than he does the one praised. To praise is an investment in happiness. Simply enough said, but what a rare virtue it is, anyway!

When Emerson wrote to Walt Whitman—when his first book, "Leaves of Grass," was first published, and so many condemned it—imagine what a lift it was to him to have so great a man say: "I am not blind to the worth of the wonderful gift of Leaves of Grass . . . I give you joy of your free and brave thought. I have great joy in it. I find incomparable things said incomparably well, as they must be . . . I greet you at the beginning of a great career."

W. Robertson Nicholl, for long years the famous editor of the British Weekly, and a man who never tired of encouraging new writers, said this: "I for one mean to indulge in the "noble pleasure of praising and to enjoy the triumphs of my friends to the last laurel leaf."

It was Thomas Hardy who once said that if it had not been for the praise of George Meredith he would probably never have adopted a literary career. Many another author owes to such encouragement the success later attained. Richard Harding Davis had the habit of wiring, or writing, new writers whose contributions seemed worthy to him.

Richard Le Gallienne once said that "Criticism is the art of praise." But he said that some fifty years ago! From many of the criticisms that I read these days it gives one the impression that criticism is the art of tearing a play, movie, or book into shreds!

Sincere praise to the worthy is manna to the soul! Even a race horse runs a better race after a pat on the nose. And what a joyous look that dog of yours gives to you after you have patted and praised him. It was largely Hamlin Garland's praise of Stephen Crane that enthused a publisher to publish Crane's "Red Badge of Courage," which is now an American classic—and was largely written before Crane was of age!

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I'm hitting the road again just as soon as my radio show goes off the air for the summer. My plans are to head for Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane . . . Then turn south and make the trek down through Texas and the Middle West to the East . . . ending up at the Mayo clinic. I want to tour all the out-of-the-way places across the country, too . . . Where they haven't as yet seen me . . . All my friends think it very appropriate that I visit the hamlets.

But I love personal appearances. I like to get that feel of an audience when I perform. But don't get too enthusiastic. . . . I always watch out for those long-armed guys in the first row.

I'll never forget last year's tour. The day I left, all of Hollywood was at my door to wish me good luck . . . and to rent my room.

I've started my packing but I'm finding it very difficult to get all my stuff in one suitcase . . . My contract says I've got to take twelve dozen toothbrushes with me. I'm the only comedian on the air who has to brush his teeth three times a day before eating . . . or not eat!

Hotel reservations were pretty tough to get but when I told them I was Bob Hope, it was a cinch. And why not? . . . Not every movie star can operate an elevator.

What Should Be Said This Memorial Day

AMERICA PAUSES on this one day of the year in tribute to the valiant dead of all its wars. This silent company of heroes lies scattered over a thousand fields from Gettysburg, Shiloh, San Juan hill and St. Mihiel to Normandy, Okinawa, Anzio and the ocean deeps off Midway.

Their role is done, their battle fought, their victory won. They bought this nation's greatness and its people's freedom with their lives. If this generation does not preserve the heritage, no blame can attach to these heroes.

What shall we say to them on this Memorial day? How shall we honor them? What can we do to repay the sacrifices of these men? Shall we tell them that this nation has become decadent, that it is now ruled by mobs?

Abraham Lincoln gave us the answer for all time on the field of Gettysburg in the closing months of another great war. It is to dedicate ourselves "to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion."

They entrusted the future to our hands. This is part of that future. What are we waiting for?

A Splendid Citizen Is Taken from Us

CUMBERLAND and the tri-state area have suffered a grievous loss in the sudden passing of John I. Vandegrift, building contractor, and the whole area, which has long appreciated his worth as a businessman and citizen, mourns accordingly.

Mr. Vandegrift was a builder who constructed numerous structures throughout this section which will long remain as monuments to his splendid ability as such. While he built many dwellings, his chief effort was given in the construction of the larger public, commercial and industrial buildings, which play such an important part in the growth and upbuilding of their communities. In his work he took pride and he could well do so as these products of his hand and mind were outstanding.

But John Vandegrift was more than a builder. He was an active and worthy member of the great body of worthwhile citizenship without which those monuments he erected would not fully supply the social and economic progress for which they were designed. He gave his full share and more in civic enterprise, and contributed much in the fraternal and religious fields as well as in the cause of charity. Of particular note was his active participation in the work of the chamber of commerce.

Through all his activities, there glowed a warm, kindly personality in which there was not the slightest trace of smugness and which endeared him to the thousands with whom he came in contact and who loved him for it. Peace be to his ashes.

OPA Shearing Appears Likely

NONPARTISAN SURVEYS of Senate sentiment indicate that this branch of Congress will put approximately the same restrictions on OPA that the House of Representatives did, restrictions that caused Washington bureaucrats to rise up on their hind legs and howl to heaven that they were about to be deprived of their totalitarian power over business and the easy money they are taking from the taxpayers.

The strike mess has robbed left wing agitation for continuation of the OPA of its potency. Even those congressmen who have constantly seemed to be crazy are beginning to worry. Occasionally the horrible thought intrudes into their skulls that perhaps the people will vote against chaos this fall.

After the House voted for partial and gradual dropping of OPA curbs, most members went home and discovered that sentiment there was with them. Mail of senators who have been speaking against the OPA is running as much as ten to one against letting the OPA continue as it has. There is no longer any doubt that inequitable OPA policies are holding back production. The OPA, it seems, cannot even revise a price on a much needed product in less than three or four months. This may be because so many OPA flunkies are on the air extolling the virtues of bureaucracy.

Congress created the OPA and it is up to Congress to reform it. Congress certainly would be justified in writing into any new OPA appropriations a clause forbidding the employment by the outfit of any propagandists for OPA.

Statesmanship With a Lesson

THE HOPE that springs eternal in the human breast can be assigned as the reason why Senator Carter Glass did not retire from his senatorial duties when illness incapacitated him for so long a period. Possessed of great mental vitality, he undoubtedly believed all along that he would recover sufficiently to resume active duty. This, in all charity, excuses him for allowing his seat to be vacant during that period.

Nevertheless, the senior senator from Virginia, who has passed away with all the honors and respect of a real statesman, is generally mourned throughout the nation without regard to partianship. He was generally beloved for his staunch integrity, his sincerity, his independence, his love of truth and his unswerving patriotism. His colleague, Senator Byrd, well said that "his character, carved ont of unblemished granite, was composed of truth and loyalty and sincerity that hates deceit and detests a lie."

Senator Glass was from the South and, of course, a Democrat but his partianship never descended to the vote-getting level and was ever kept in abeyance for the welfare of his country and its people regardless of such considerations. There wree numerous times when he departed from the course of his party and its other leaders, notably when he differed from President Roosevelt over the New Deal's fiscal policies and said so vigorously. It was his vigorous independence and hatred of intolerance that enabled him to render such magnificent public service in various capacities, a service that distintly benefited his country and won him such universal regard and continued support.

The career of this public servant thus furnishes a lesson for others in public life that may well be heeded. It was a career more of the stature of statesmanship rather than mere good service.

Arrogant Labor Leaders Can't Learn the Lesson

THE CONTINUED ARROGANCE of unabashed and unruly labor leaders such as those carrying on at Rochester, N. Y., Detroit and other places along with James Caesar Petrillo, head of the Musicians' union, and Bridges, Curran and other pro-Communists who are fostering a world-wide shipping strike, lends emphasis, if any were needed, to the need for a revision of the basic labor relations laws, and for some such emergency legislation as that advocated by President Truman. These leaders, still drunk with the power conferred upon them and repeatedly confirmed, strangely have failed to heed the unmistakable warning that has been given them by the president and Congress. They are thus doing organiged labor uncalculable harm.

Similarly misguided are those in the Congress who are opposing all efforts to remedy the deplorable labor situation. They are pinning their hopes first on defeating every move to correct an intolerable condition of affairs and secondly upon muddling the whole movement to such an extent that they will invite a veto from President Truman. But it is almost impossible to conceive that President Truman would go that far—an absurdity that he should seek the drastic powers that he has sought to cope with the national emergency and then reject what is likely to be a much milder and yet more fundamental measure.

The irresponsible labor racketeers have gone entirely too far. They have invited the lesson which is now to be learned, and it is incredible that they cannot perceive and heed it.

A scheduled uprising in Iran was postponed on account of bad weather. Imagine a revolutionist who doesn't mind getting shot as long as he doesn't get his feet wet.

Whitney Threat Calls for Action, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 29—Nobody in history has ever publicly threatened a president of the United States with defeat at the polls by the spending of money.

When A. F. Whitney, railroad union chief, says he and his union will spend $47,000,000 to defeat President Truman for re-election, it is tantamount to declaring that a president can be beaten by money spent in influencing voters. This in itself is a strange accusation to make against the American electorate but it is stranger still when used as a threat against a chief executive. For what it means is that if the next president happens to be someone other than Mr. Truman he must be careful to shape his policies so as not to offend the groups which have spent $47,000,000 or more to win an election for him. If the Whitney threat should materalize, it will be up to the next Republican nominee to repudiate any such support from the very beginning.

Note for Congress

The idea that money can win elections is widely held and yet both political parties and all the expenses of state campaigns would hardly reach $20,000,000 in a presidential camapign year. To offer to spend $47,000,000, therefore, is something unheard of in American politics and it would be surprising if the Congress failed to take note of what is being planned. Incidentally, the Whitney statement included a threat to defeat members of Congress by spending $2,500,000.

Is the American labor union movement just a political adventure after all—an effort to get power enough to override government authority? Certainly up to now it had been believed that labor union dues and assessments were contributed for the direct benefit of the members and not as political war chests.

Statue Evaded

The labor unions are collecting billions of dollars annually and if they have the right to use these funds to coerce government or to elect representatives who will do their bidding, then Congress has been neglectful in not passing stringent laws prohibiting the use of money in such large sums to influence elections. Corporations have been forbidden to use their money to make political contributions. Unions are restrained, too, under a wartime statute, from using funds in political campagins but the Democratic administration in the last presidential campagn calmly construed the law technically to allow money to be used in certain cases notwithstanding the statute.

Criticism Unjustified

The right to paralyze the nation's communication system does not exist and no amount of criticism of Mr. Truman for his devotion to duty as he saw it will ever justify what the Whitney-Johnston policy did to the people of the United States last week. Instead of voicing indignation, labor union chiefs who are now denouncing the president should be saying that the labor union movement disavows the extremes to which the two railroad chiefs went.

Unfortunate it appears that the various unions which are siding with the Whitney-Johnston policy do believe it was right to stop the trains and the distribution of food for this country and the starving millions abroad. No more conspicuous example of a misguided fanaticism in behalf of any cause has been given in recent years than by these union partisans.

Election Influenced

There are at least 50,000,000 persons gainfully employed today. Of these 14,000,000 are members of unions. The other 36,000,000 and a considerable part of the 14,000,000 resent the misuse of power by union organizations to injure the public interest. That same 36,000,000 or more will be found to be part of the dominant majority in any election where the issue to preserve the nation's health and safety as against those who believe in the right to use economic force to further their own ends regardless of the damage done to the public.

Mr. Whitney and Mr. Johnston owe an apology to the American people for what they did last week. When they have admitted their wrong they will be in a far better position to argue the merits of the working rules and other items for which they may have had a better case than they made by their rash action in stopping te trains of the nation.

MAPS MINE ACTION

COMMANDER GEORGE E. SLOCUM, U.S.N., sent to Pittsburgh, Pa., to see that President Truman's mine seizure orders were carried out, is shown mapping details of his job. He said that if the miners fail to return to work, "we'll have the army to back us up."

TODAY WE WALK WITH MEMORIES

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Top Administration Leaders Split On Loan to France, Pearson Asserts

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Top Administration leaders were split wide open over the loan to France during a secret and significant meeting of the National Advisory Council.

Present were Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, chairman; Assistant Secretary of State Will Clayton, Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace, Chairman Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, and William McChesney Martin, head of the Export-Import Bank.

Clayton teed off by proposing that the council approve the $650,000,000 loan. Secretary Wallace said he approved but wanted the record to show that he supported the French loan for economic and not for political purposes.

"I want the record to show," countered Chairman Vinson, "that I favor the loan for good and sufficient reasons, both economic and political."

Up to this point, the meeting was mild. Clayton casually announced that he had checked into the legality of the present French Government and that it was capable of accepting and repaying the loan, regardless of what happened in the June 2 elections. This gave Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles his opening.

"This loan should be considered on economic grounds and economic grounds only," he said with vigor.

"Naturally, our government is interested in political activity in other countries. But, I should very much dislike to have our government accused of undertaking to buy a foreign election. That's the very thing we attacked the Russians for."

Eccles then proposed that the loan be held off until after the French election so as not to appear a coercive measure.

"There are political considerations in every loan," observed Vinson.

"We're concerned with getting countries back on their feet," Eccles shot back, "rather than as to whether the government is socialist, communist or a capitalistic democracy."

Chinese Politics and U. S. Money

At this point Henry Wallace spoke out and said it would be unfortunate if it leaked out to the French people that the United States had any major political considerations in mind in making its loan. This brought a rejoinder from Secretary Vinson.

"The half-billion dollar loan to China was a political loan and we made it on the basis of General Marshall's plea."

"If I had been present," Wallace snapped back, "I would have voted against the China loan."

At this point, the banker from Utah, Marriner Eccles, jumped into the fray again.

"I think it would be very unfortunate," he said, "to make a loan just before an election in order to influence it. Besides, there would be no assurance that it would work out that way. The French might resent the fact that we are trying to influence the election. We learned that lesson the hard way in Latin America."

Then, looking at Assistant Secretary of State Clayton, formerly the world's largest cotton broker, Eccles concluded:

"Suppose the election goes wrong? Would we still give it?" Clayton beat around the bush a moment, but said that the United States probably would still approve some kind of a loan though with more strings attached.

Eccles then moved that the loan be held up until after the election. However, Clayton, having in mind a promise the State Department had already made to the French government, protested.

"We've stalled on this for six weeks already," Clayton said. "We can't stall any longer."

Eccles then moved that the French loan be scaled down to $500,000,000, but was over-ruled.

In the end, the committee approved the entire $650,000,000 credit from the Export-Import Bank, with some side adjustments regarding Lend-Lease.

Rankin Wants Counsel Switch

Now that the Mississippi's rootin-tootin' Congressman John Rankin has $75,000 to spend for his Un-American Activities Committee, he is anxious to ditch Committee Counsel Ernie Adamson. Adamson is the gentleman who aroused public attention when he went on record as against democracy.

"I'm moving Heaven, Hell and high water," Congressman Rankin told a friend the other day, "to get Bob Stripling out of the army. I need him. Adamson has put us in a jam. Stripling is more discreet and his mouth isn't as big as Adamson's."

Robert Stripling, the man Rankin wants to get out of the army, for a long time was counsel to the Dies Committee, and has the unique reputation of being one of the most deferred gentlemen ever to work on Capitol Hill.

For a long time the Dies Committee got Stripling deferred as an essential worker. Finally, in August 1944, his Virginia draft board decided he wasn't so essential after all, and put him in 1-A. However, three times congresmen intervened to prevent his induction. But finally the army caught him. He got in shortly before the end of the war with Germany, and now Congressman Rankin is pulling all sorts of wires to get him out.

Barkley: "OPA Is A Corpse"

As the Senate Banking and Currency committee neared the end of its secret session, at which it virtually killed the OPA, Senator Taft, very much pleased with the day's work, proposed that the special decontrol board created by the committee a day earlier might just as well be abandoned.

"Its work has been done for it," Taft said, referring to the fact that prices were to be removed from meat, poultry and dairy products on June 30, rather than be decontrolled gradually.

Replied Democratic leader Alben Barkley, who fought a valiant though losing battle for price control:

"Oh, well, let's keep the board. As long as you have a corpse, you might as well have pall-bearers."

Capital Chaff

Cordell Hull now is writing his memoirs at his home in Carthage, Tenn., with the aid of Col. Andrew H. Berding, an old Washington newsman . . . In preparation for its southern drive, CIO-PAC is opening a school of political action technique in Washington . . . OPA's Robert R. R. Brooks, one of the administration's top economists, returns to teaching at Williams college next month . . . Presidential court jester George Allen has shed four pounds on a new diet . . . Before going to the Naval hospital with another illness, Senate President Kenneth D. McKellar, number one on the CIO purge list, named a special Senate Election Investigating committee loaded with senators sure to probe the CIO . . . Bob Hannegan will throw his full weight behind ex-Governor Prentice Cooper, of Tennessee, as senatorial candidate against Hannegan's arch enemy, Tom Stewart, when Stewart comes up for re-election. That's one reason why Hannegan backed Cooper's recent appointment as ambassador to Peru.

Emergency Law Is Not Full Remedy, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

Begin by understanding that the president's emergency legislation about strikes is a thing apart. Understand just what it is, and what it is not. It is not a remedy for the labor problem, and does not pretend to be. It applies only to extremely limited kinds of strikes.

For the emergency legislation to apply a strike must be, to quote the president's words, in one of "those few industries" in which a strike "affects the entire economy of the United States." And it must be in an industry "essential . . . to the effective transition from war to peace."

Those are the kinds of strike which the president's emergency legislation would apply to. To illustrate how many and serious are the strikes which the emergency legislation would not apply to, it happens there was a coincidence.

Other Strikes Ignored

At the very moment when the president was requesting his emergency legislation, there was a threat of strike (which has since taken place) in Rochester, N. Y.—beginning with a dispute between city employees and the Public Works department, and accompanied by threat of strike by all unions, both CIO and AFL, in the private industries of the city. Such a strike would paralyze Rochester locally as much as the railroad strike paralyzed the country as a whole.

But of that local Rochester strike the president's emergency legislation would take no notice. Nor would it take notice of hundreds of local strikes and threatened strikes throughout the country, harassing hundreds of businesses and communities, embroiling tens of thousands of workers.

Not the Answer

No, the president's emergency legislation is not an answer to the country's labor problem, and does not purport to be. In addition to the limitation of scope, there is limitatin of time—the emergency bill itself provides that it shall expire six months after formal termination of the state of war. Finally, the president's emergency legislation does not prevent strikes from starting, nor attempt to. It comes into effect only after a strike has taken place, and has gone so far that the government decides to take over the struck industry. The procedure and penalties of the legislation apply only to a condition in which the government has taken over.

Plainly the president's emergency legislation is not the answer to the country's labor problem. The president expressly said it is not. And plainly an answer is needed.

An attempt at answer has been written. It is called the Case bill, and this is to be looked upon as a thing separate from the president's emergency legislation.

Several Aspects Treaded

The Case bill deals with several aspects of labor relations, including mediation, "cooling off" periods, secondary strikes, liability of unions for breach of contract, fact-finding bodies, foremen's unions, equality of obligation of unions and employers to bargain collectively.

The Case bill deals with these subjects. The way it deals with some of them may or may not be the best possible. The bill as a whole may be short of adequate. But presumption that it has been carefully written—and certainly that it conforms to public demand—is provided by two facts. It passed the Senate, after two weeks debate, by 49 to 29. And it passed the House by an even larger preponderance, 258 to 155.

The Case bill exists. It is at this moment awaiting adjustment of minor differences in the two versions passed by the respective branches of Congress. Thereafter it will go to the president for signature.

Delay Unwarranted

There is surmise that the president will be reluctant to sign. When he was asking Congress to give him his temporary emergency legislation, he at the same time said there was also need for long-range legislation. But he suggested delay. He said, "the whole subject of labor relations must be studied afresh." He recommended a joint congressional committee to "study the whole problem" and "to report within a period of six months."

Just now six months is a long time. Before it expires, there will be a congressional election, in November. Soon after it expires, and before Congress could have time to act, the present Congress will expire and there will be a new one. What has been about labor legislation would have to begin all over, in a Congress that may be changed by the election. The immediate question is, will the president be willing to cooperate with the legislative body by signing a bill which both branches of that body have passed by large majorities?

Sincere praise to the worthy is manna to the soul! Even a race horse runs a better race after a pat on the nose. And what a joyous look that dog of yours gives to you after you have patted and praised him. It was largely Hamlin Garland's praise of Stephen Crane that enthused a publisher to publish Crane's "Red Badge of Courage," which is now an American classic—and was largely written before Crane was of age!

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I'm hitting the road again just as soon as my radio show goes off the air for the summer. My plans are to head for Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane . . . Then turn south and make the trek down through Texas and the Middle West to the East . . . ending up at the Mayo clinic. I want to tour all the out-of-the-way places across the country, too . . . Where they haven't as yet seen me . . . All my friends think ft very appropriate that I visit the hamlets.

But I love personal appearances. I like to get that feel of an audience when I perform. But don't get too enthusiastic. . . . I always watch out for those long-armed guys in the first row.

I'll never forget last year's tour. The day I left, all of Hollywood was at my door to wish me good luck . . . and to rent my room.

I've started my packing but I'm finding it very difficult to get all my stuff in one suitcase . . . My contract says I've got to take twelve dozen toothbrushes with me. I'm the only comedian on the air who has to brush his teeth three times a day before eating . . . or not eat!

Hotel reservations were pretty tough to get but when I told them I was Bob Hope, it was a cinch. And why not? . . . Not every movie star can operate an elevator.

Number of Strong Stocks Continue To Touch New Fifteen-Year Peaks

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A number of strong stocks continued to touch new fifteen-year peaks in today's market while many leaders stumbled over more insistent profit taking.

Earnings, dividends, splitups and future business prospects still buoyed favorites. Numerous customers cashed in, however, on the idea that settlement of the coal strike, which Wall street expected momentarily during the day, may have been partially discounted by the lengthy upswing. Accounts were trimmed for protection over tomorrow's holiday when principal securities exchanges will recess.

Transfers aggregated 1,900,000 shares compared with 2,200,000 Tuesday which were the largest since February 26.

It was another broad market, 1,049 issues appearing against Tuesday's record of 1,077. Of the total, 460 rose and 404 fell.

In front were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Studebaker, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, Great Northern, Southern Pacific and Pennsylvania. Casualties were Republic Steel, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Carbide, Phelps Dodge, Philip Morris, du Pont and American Can.

In the plus column of the Curb were Graham-Paige preferred, Beau Brummel Ties (on a hoisted dividend), Cities Service and Montana-Dakota Utilities. Turnover here was 930,000 shares versus 1,030,000 yesterday.

The bond market, particularly rail issues, made a good showing in the face of considerable opposition.

Closing ahead were Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at 75.

United States governments in the longer maturities advanced again in the stock exchange and over-the-counter market in limited dealings.

Turnover of $4,430,000 compared with $5,020,000 Tuesday.

Number of Strong Stocks Continue To Touch New Fifteen-Year Peaks

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP) — A number of strong stocks continued to touch new fifteen-year peaks in today's market while many leaders stumbled over more insistent profit taking.

Earnings, dividends, splitups and future business prospects still buoyed favorites. Numerous customers cashed in, however, on the idea that settlement of the coal strike, which Wall street expected momentarily during the day, may have been partially discounted by the lengthy upswing. Accounts were trimmed for protection over tomorrow's holiday when principal securities exchanges will recess.

Transfers aggregated 1,900,000 shares compared with 2,200,000 Tuesday which were the largest since February 26.

It was another broad market, 1,049 issues appearing against Tuesday's record of 1,077. Of the total, 460 rose and 404 fell.

In front were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Studebaker, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, Great Northern, Southern Pacific and Pennsylvania. Casualties were Republic Steel, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Union Carbide, Phelps Dodge, Philip Morris, du Pont and American Can.

In the plus column of the Curb were Graham-Paige preferred, Beau Brummel Ties (on a hoisted dividend), Cities Service and Montana-Dakota Utilities. Turnover here was 930,000 shares versus 1,030,000 yesterday.

The bond market, particularly rail issues, made a good showing in the face of considerable opposition.

Closing ahead were Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles at 75.

United States governments in the longer maturities advanced again in the stock exchange and over-the-counter market in limited dealings.

Turnover of $4,430,000 compared with $5,020,000 Tuesday.

Soldier's Sister May Be Designated Allowance Payee

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am an enlisted man in the army. As my mother is dependent on me for chief support, I applied for the family allowance and she receives $50 a month. Due to her ill health and old age, she is unable to cash her checks. Since my sister is taking care of mother, would it be possible to name her as payee for my mother's family allowance checks?

CORPORAL F.

Yes. Fill out a change of status form (WD AGO Form 641), giving all details and requesting that your sister be made payee for the family allowance, and send it to the Office of Dependency Benefits, 213 Washington street, Newark 2, N. J. Upon receipt of your request, the ODB will make the change in the account, and future checks will be mailed to your sister.

Statistics about ANC

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How old is the army nurse corps and how many women were a part of this branch of the service? What awards have been made to these women?

(MRS.) E. D. S.

The army nurse corps celebrated its forty-fifth anniversary on February 2, 1946. When the national emergency was declared in 1940, this branch numbered 949 and it grew to a final total strength in 1945 of 57,000 women.

The War department made a total of 1,458 awards, including one Distinguished Service Medal, in all theaters of war. Among these were twenty-one awards made posthumously to members killed in action; two to those who died as a result of wounds received in action; seventy-four to army nurses captured or interned by the enemy.

The Purple Heart appears on the uniforms of sixty-two, while sixteen wear the Legion of Merit medals. Also, two Distinguished Flying Crosses, and 431 Air Medals have been earned by army nurses serving with the air forces. And four Silver Stars and 834 Bronze Stars have been awarded.

No Subsistence Allowances

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My brother, a discharged war veteran, is interested in taking a correspondence course in accountancy. Is this included in the GI Bill of Rights? If so, will he get subsistence allowance?

(MRS.) F. S. D.

A veteran may apply to take a correspondence course under the GI Bill of Rights, but he is not entitled to subsistence allowance. Total amount payable for correspondence courses for any veteran is limited to $500.

Amount of Insurance May be Reduced

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When my brother went into the service he took out a $10,000 insurance policy in national service life. He would like to continue this insurance, but feels he cannot afford so much. Is it possible to reduce this insurance after he has been discharged?

D. R.

If the insured in national service life does not desire to retain the whole amount of his life insurance, it may be reduced. The amount continued must be a multiple of $500 but not less than $1,000. He should make application by letter to the Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C., stating the exact amount of insurance to be continued in force. It is advisable to send a remittance (check or money order) in an amount sufficient to cover the first premium.

Should Write Adjutant General

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My son is overseas and I am very worried as I haven't heard from him for several months. Where can I write to find out if anything has happened to him?

(MRS.) K. L.

Information concerning a soldier overseas whose family has not heard from him for some time, may be obtained by writing to the adjutant general, Washington 25, D. C. Give his full name and serial number. If you don't have his serial number, give his date of birth, full name, place where he was inducted into the army, and his last known A. P. O. address.

— o —

POSTWAR PROBLEMS

If you're still in the armed services and you have a problem regarding insurance, allowances, allotments, maternity or infant care for wives and children, or desire the answer to any other service question, write to Beatrice Fairfax, care of this paper. If you wish a personal answer, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Jurists Withhold Decision on Move For New Trial

Chief of Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper Tuesday reserved decision in the motion for a new trial filed by defense counsel in the appeal case of Virginia Frantz against the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the state industrial accident commission.

Argument in the case was presented by Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., counsel for the company, and Edward J. Ryan, representing the young woman. No decision will be given until the testimony is transcribed.

The woman tripped and fell at work October 18, 1944, and was allowed partial disability for a back injury. Since the mishap occurred she was married, and her name is now Mrs. Virginia Ergenbright. Her attorney appealed after the commission gave its ruling, and she was allowed 100 per cent disability by jury on May 1.

Army Commendation Given Sgt. Biehn

Master Sgt. Clarence Biehn, of Baltimore, former local army recruiter, has been awarded the army commendation ribbon for outstanding service. Biehn was in charge of the local army recruiting station for more than twenty years, prior to being transferred to Baltimore.

The award was presented by Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, commanding general of the Third Service Command.

The citation reads: "for meritorious and outstanding service as recruiting sergeant with the Baltimore recruiting and induction district, Baltimore, from January 5, 1945, to March 16, 1946. Through his long years of Army experience, his superior performance of duty has reflected great credit upon the military service and his dynamic and pleasing personality have aided materially in the successful performance and operation of the armed forces induction station."

Sgt. Biehm is well known in this city where he was an Army recruiter for more than 20 years prior to being stationed in Baltimore.

In Memoriam

Brave men of many times and places inspired by the simple ideals of a peaceful world community of free men and women have left their homes and families, their employment and their pleasures, to fight for all they hold dear.

For each, the fight has had a different goal and meaning; each has possessed his own, his special way of fighting, yet all have been united in the single hope to make the world a better place in which to live.

Our fellow Textile Workers, shared the common aspirations of the front line fighters. In our Country's service, they fought on all these fronts and died that some day war will cease to scar the world and all may live freely and work to share the richness of the Earth.

We mourn these members of Local 1874, T.W.U.A., CIO and dedicate these services to them and to all of their dear ones. We pledge to carry on for them, to struggle unfalteringly against all tyrants, against fear and want, to seek freedom, democracy and lasting Peace.

Soldier's Sister May Be Designated Allowance Payee

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am an enlisted man in the army. As my mother is dependent on me for chief support, I applied for the family allowance and she receives $50 a month. Due to her ill health and old age, she is unable to cash her checks. Since my sister is taking care of mother, would it be possible to name her as payee for my mother's family allowance checks?

CORPORAL F.

Yes. Fill out a change of status form (WD AGO Form 641), giving all details and requesting that your sister be made payee for the family allowance, and send it to the Office of Dependency Benefits, 213 Washington street, Newark 2, N. J. Upon receipt of your request, the ODB will make the change in the account, and future checks will be mailed to your sister.

Statistics about ANC

Dear Miss Fairfax:

How old is the army nurse corps and how many women were a part of this branch of the service? What awards have been made to these women?

(MRS.) E. D. S.

The army nurse corps celebrated its forty-fifth anniversary on February 2, 1946. When the national emergency was declared in 1940, this branch numbered 949 and it grew to a final total strength in 1945 of 57,000 women.

The War department made a total of 1,458 awards, including one Distinguished Service Medal, in all theaters of war. Among these were twenty-one awards made posthumously to members killed in action; two to those who died as a result of wounds received in action; seventy-four to army nurses captured or interned by the enemy.

The Purple Heart appears on the uniforms of sixty-two, while sixteen wear the Legion of Merit medals. Also, two Distinguished Flying Crosses, and 431 Air Medals have been earned by army nurses serving with the air forces. And four Silver Stars and 834 Bronze Stars have been awarded.

No Subsistence Allowances

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My brother, a discharged war veteran, is interested in taking a correspondence course in accountancy. Is this included in the GI Bill of Rights? If so, will he get subsistence allowance?

(MRS.) F. S. D.

A veteran may apply to take a correspondence course under the GI Bill of Rights, but he is not entitled to subsistence allowance. Total amount payable for correspondence courses for any veteran is limited to $500.

Amount of Insurance May be Reduced

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When my brother went into the service he took out a $10,000 insurance policy in national service life. He would like to continue this insurance, but feels he cannot afford so much. Is it possible to reduce this insurance after he has been discharged?

D. R.

If the insured in national service life does not desire to retain the whole amount of his life insurance, it may be reduced. The amount continued must be a multiple of $500 but not less than $1,000. He should make application by letter to the Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C., stating the exact amount of insurance to be continued in force. It is advisable to send a remittance (check or money order) in an amount sufficient to cover the first premium.

Should Write Adjutant General

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My son is overseas and I am very worried as I haven't heard from him for several months. Where can I write to find out if anything has happened to him?

(MRS.) K. L.

Information concerning a soldier overseas whose family has not heard from him for some time, may be obtained by writing to the adjutant general, Washington 25, D. C. Give his full name and serial number. If you don't have his serial number, give his date of birth, full name, place where he was inducted into the army, and his last known A. P. O. address.

POSTWAR PROBLEMS

If you're still in the armed services and you have a problem regarding insurance, allowances, allotments, maternity or infant care for wives and children, or desire the answer to any other service question, write to Beatrice Fairfax, care of this paper. If you wish a personal answer, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Jurists Withhold Decision on Move For New Trial

Chief of Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper Tuesday reserved decision in the motion for a new trial filed by defense counsel in the appeal case of Virginia Frantz against the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the state industrial accident commission.

Argument in the case was presented by Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., counsel for the company, and Edward J. Ryan, representing the young woman. No decision will be given until the testimony is transcribed.

The woman tripped and fell at work October 18, 1944, and was allowed partial disability for a back injury. Since the mishap occurred she was married, and her name is now Mrs. Virginia Ergenbright. Her attorney appealed after the commission gave its ruling, and she was allowed 100 per cent disability by jury on May 1.

Army Commendation Given Sgt. Biehn

Master Sgt. Clarence Biehn, of Baltimore, former local army recruiter, has been awarded the army commendation ribbon for outstanding service. Biehn was in charge of the local army recruiting station in the motion for more than twenty years, prior to being transferred to Baltimore.

The award was presented by Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, commanding general of the Third Service Command.

The citation reads: "for meritorious and outstanding service as recruiting sergeant with the Baltimore recruiting and induction district, Baltimore, from January 5, 1945, to March 16, 1946. Through his long years of Army experience, his superior performance of duty has reflected great credit upon the military service and his dynamic and pleasing personality have aided materially in the successful performance and operation of the armed forces induction station."

Sgt. Biehm is well known in this city where he was an Army recruiter for more than 20 years prior to being stationed in Baltimore.

In Memoriam

Brave men of many times and places inspired by the simple ideals of a peaceful world community of free men and women have left their homes and families, their employment and their pleasures, to fight for all they hold dear.

For each, the fight has had a different goal and meaning; each has possessed his own, his special way of fighting, yet all have been united in the single hope to make the world a better place in which to live.

Our fellow Textile Workers, shared the common aspirations of the front line fighters. In our Country's service, they fought on all these fronts and died that some day war will cease to scar the world and all may live freely and work to share the richness of the Earth.

We mourn these members of Local 1874, T.W.U.A., CIO and dedicate these services to them and to all of their dear ones. We pledge to carry on for them, to struggle unfalteringly against all tyrants, against fear and want, to seek freedom, democracy and lasting Peace.

Sinus Condition May Be Worsened By Certain Drugs

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

It is sometimes possible to pay too high a price for comfort, particularly if, by attaining comfort, some disease condition is made worse.

This may be especially true where a cold or sinus infection is concerned. In these disorders, the lining of the nose becomes inflamed and swollen, causing the stuffed-up feeling which is so annoying.

It is possible to relieve this feeling by use of certain drugs called vasoconstrictors, which shrink the nasal membranes. But, whether or not it is always wise to do so is another story.

Blood Supply

You can understand why, if you realize that when infection occurs anywhere in the body, the blood supply to the part is greatly increased so that large numbers of white blood cells, the body's own infection fighters, are rushed to the scene of the trouble; waste products are carried off more quickly than usual and added nourishment is available.

It is this process which causes the swelling of the lining membranes of the nose in a cold. If you shrink them artificially you may be simply countering the body's own defensive process in order to gain comfort and the chances are that your cold may last longer than it would otherwise. It is noteworthy that, when other parts of the body become infected, treatment is rarely if ever, along the line of diminishing the blood supply.

Thus, according to Dr. Barney M. Kully, Los Angeles, Cal., if vasoconstricting drugs are used (that is, drugs that cause blood vessels to contract), they frequently cause the congestion to persist for some days after it should have cleared up. If the use of the drugs is continued, temporary relief is obtained but this, in turn, is followed by increased congestion.

He thinks that if the secretions from the nose and the blocking of the nasal passages persist beyond the third day of an acute cold it means that the treatment being used may be wrong. In other words, he believes the use of these vasoconstrictor drugs prolongs the acute inflammation and may cause sinus and ear infections.

The same thing is true about treatment of acute sinus infections. The vasoconstrictor drugs lessen the congestion in the nose and allow infected material in the sinuses to drain out but their continued use will produce more congestion in the nose, block the sinus openings in the nose, and thus impede drainage.

Inflammation of the nasal passages due to nasal allergy or oversensitivity may be aggravated by the use of these shrinking drugs. The relief obtained with their use is only temporary and the usual aftermath is increased blocking of the nasal passages.

These facts do not mean that drugs which shrink the lining membrane of the nose should not be used at all. If properly employed, they are beneficial, but persons should not get into the habit of using them without the advice of a physician.

I know of no better way to justify the statements I constantly make in these articles to show the readers how it is to their benefit to not try self-treatment but to consult the doctor promptly.

A 10-year-old North Mechanic street boy who police said admitted starting the blaze which resulted in serious damage to the Public Service food market, 24 North George street, Sunday evening, was given a hearing Tuesday in juvenile court, local authorities reported.

Authorities said the case is cleared with the exception of the problem of what to do with the lad since state institutions will not admit persons under the age of 12.

It was understood that the lad was released in the custody of his grandfather and that efforts may be made to place the lad in a private institution.

VETERAN B. & O. WORKER RETIRES

William E. Boyland, an employe of the B. and O. Railroad almost 49 years and trainmaster on the Connellsville Division for 20 years, will retire June 1. Boyland was assistant trainmaster at Cumberland from 1919 to 1926 after succeeding W. S. Toomey.

Born in West Virginia and educated in the public schools, Mr. Boyland quit school at the age of 18 and traveled for a Philadelphia firm until September, 1897.

Always having a desire to "go on the railroad" he started work on the Baltimore & Ohio at Glenwood September 8, 1897. From that point he was transferred to the Connellsville yards where he remained until November, 1, 1898, when he was put to work on the road as a brakeman. December 20, 1900, he was made a conductor.

At that time the Connellsville Division was practically all single track between Connellsville and Cumberland. There were few air brakes and little modern equipment. The small '00-class engines were used principally in freight service between Connellsville and the Cumberland terminal, this being the largest type in service then on the division.

Boyland worked as conductor and station master until September 1, 1918, when he was promoted to assistant trainmaster at Rockwood.

Boyland has been identified with many Connellsville activities. During the war he was chairman of gasoline and tire rationing. He is a life trustee of the Carnegie Free Library; vice-president of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. which position he has held for a number of years. He is a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Community Fund. He is also a director of the Second National Bank, and a member of and past president of the Rotary Club.

Mr. Boyland will be succeeded by J. L. Lowney, now terminal trainmaster, Paul V. Colburn will become terminal trainmaster.

DON'T BE A FALL GUY

A "fall guy" is a term applied to a man who missed his chance. There is every indication that topcoats will be extremely scarce this fall. Don't allow yourself to be caught short.

Right now we have a goodly number of topcoats in stock in various fabrics — coverts, cheviots, gabardines, tweeds, and fleeces — many are 100% virgin wool, in the latest fashion, and made with our customary expert tailoring. Plenty of colors and in all sizes.

Come and get one — while you can. In our tradition of service, this is the best advice that we can give to all of our loyal customers. Then this fall you won't be a fall guy.

VETERAN B. & O. WORKER RETIRES

William E. Boyland, an employe of the B. and O. Railroad almost 49 years and trainmaster on the Connellsville Division for 20 years, will retire June 1. Boyland was assistant trainmaster at Cumberland from 1919 to 1926 after succeeding W. S. Toomey.

Born in West Virginia and educated in the public schools, Mr. Boyland quit school at the age of 18 and traveled for a Philadelphia firm until September, 1897.

Always having a desire to "go on the railroad" he started work on the Baltimore & Ohio at Glenwood September 8, 1897. From that point he was transferred to the Connellsville yards where he remained until November, 1, 1898, when he was put to work on the road as a brakeman. December 20, 1900, he was made a conductor.

At that time the Connellsville Division was practically all single track between Connellsville and Cumberland. There were few air brakes and little modern equipment. The small '00-class engines were used principally in freight service between Connellsville and the Cumberland terminal, this being the largest type in service then on the division.

Boyland worked as conductor and station master until September 1, 1918, when he was promoted to assistant trainmaster at Rockwood.

Boyland has been identified with many Connellsville activities. During the war he was chairman of gasoline and tire rationing. He is a life trustee of the Carnegie Free Library; vice-president of the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. which position he has held for a number of years. He is a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Community Fund. He is also a director of the Second National Bank, and a member of and past president of the Rotary Club.

Mr. Boyland will be succeeded by J. L. Lowney, now terminal trainmaster. Paul V. Colburn will become terminal trainmaster.

WHAT'S YOUR PET HATE?

Most of us, if not all of us, have an extra special dislike for something. It may be swing music, Impressionism in painting, slang, the historical novel, the life of the party, dyed hair or the lady columnist. And we never miss an opportunity to spout off in violent protest against him, her or it.

Why do we do it? Simply because it makes us feel superior to be able to criticize. We're actually proud of our prejudices and boast about the things we "can't stand." And so it follows that we hold in contempt anyone who does enjoy the thing which is particularly hateful to us, looking down on him as if he were an inferior form of life.

How stupid and short sighted we are! It never occurs to us that others may condemn or, worse still, pity us because we happen to dote on something which THEY detest.

But the real pity of it all is that in nurturing such dislikes we injure ourselves. Aside from the definitely poisonous effect hate has on the spirit, it circumscribes and limits our appreciation and enjoyment of all life.

The moment we begin putting up fences to shut out what's disagreeable, we wall ourselves away from much that is beautiful and lovely. You meet Miss Jones at a party and are repelled at once by her atrocious taste in clothes. If you avoid her from then on you will never discover her marvelous wit or the sincerity of her friendliness. Her color sense may be deficient but she's worth a dozen Powers models whose only talent is showing off glamorous gowns.

If you switch off a radio station at the beginning of a symphony program because you "can't abide that highbrow stuff," you miss some of the greatest thrills the spirit can know. Did you like Tchaikowsky, Bach and Stravinsky before Walt Disney "popularized" them in the movies? If you will listen, you will find beauty or at least tantalizing interest in everything from Berlin to Bartok, regardless of your previous notions concerning them.

Actually, our proud prejudices are nothing but proof of our ignorance. Prejudice is not a sign of superior taste and discrimination. It is merely evidence of immaturity and childish intolerance.

A wall of prejudices is not a safeguard, keeping you secure and protected. It is prison, restraining your development, narrowing your horizons, stunting your growth.

Don't put up fences! Every one you build shows you up as an ignoramus. Kick them over, open your mind and heart and give your pet hate a chance to prove its worth.

FRIDAY GAME
Beall at LaSalle

Sid Weinbach put on the "white-washing act" for the fourth time yesterday as Allegany high school's baseball team swept its season series with Fort Hill at Campobello by taking the final game, 6-0, and thereby laid claim to both the city and Tri-State Conference championships for the 1946 season.

Pitching his sixth complete game, Weinbach let the Hilltoppers down with three hits—Irvin Mangus's single in the second, Frye's one-base knock in the sixth, and Johnny Brown's two base blow in the seventh—and breezed the third strike past ten at Campobello to register his sixth triumph in as many starts. He also boosted his total strikeouts for the season to an even seventy.

Only twenty-one batsmen faced the AHS portsider in the first six frames and the only time he was in danger was in the final frame when he lost control momentarily, walked two batsmen, then finished up in whirlwind style by whiffing Dean and Hansrote to end the game. Johnny Brown opened the inning by lining a double to center. Then Jim Mangus drew a pass. Jimmie Radcliffe fumbled one of Weinbach's pitches, recovered the ball, and whipped the pellet to "Sonny" Lease in time to cut down Brown, who attempted to advance to third on the play. Irvin Mangus walked and then Weinbach regained his control and mowed down the last two batters on strikes.

Perrell Hits in Clutch

Paul Judy's wildness got him in a jam at the very start and Allegany took advantage of his generosity by scoring twice in the first frame. Baker walked and pilfered second but sprained his right ankle and Welch Hardman was inserted to run for him. Bachman walked and after Radcliffe was called out on strikes, Powers drew a pass, filling the bases. Price forced Hardman at the plate, Judy to Frye, and then Roy Perrell dropped a Texas League single in right, scoring both Bachman and Powers while Price moved to third. Willison flied to Dick to end the inning.

Allegany scored twice after two down in the second. Baker walked, advanced to third on Bashman's hit to right and both men scored when Jimmie Radcliffe smacked a single to left which Hansrote let go through him to the fence.

Willison's single, Lease's double, Weinbach's infield out, a double steal and error produced Allegany's last two runs in the sixth.

Elmer Freeland, Fort Hill first sacker, who had hit safely in nine games, was stopped by Weinbach, who struck him out three times in as many trips to the plate. Out of a total of six passes issued by Judy, Charley Baker worked him for four of them. Judy struck out nine batters.

Allegany clinched city honors by winning its third straight game, two from Fort Hill and one from LaSalle. The Campers laid claim to the conference title through winning eight out of nine games, including a game via the forfeit route from Paw Paw, which will be unable to play its final game of the season with the Campers. Paw Paw lost its first game to A.H.S., 31-0, and has suffered decisive defeats at the hands of all other conference teams.

Hyndman high school helped sew up conference honors for Allegany yesterday by nosing out Beall high school in Frostburg by the score of 5-4.

Trailing 4 to 2 going into the seventh, Hyndman put the game on ice with a three-run outburst, featured by Miller's triple to deep left and Curt "Bunny" Stahlman's double down the left field line which scored Manges with what proved to be the deciding run.

Stahlman's hit enabled Johnny Waltman to gain the verdict over Max Stowell in a pitching duel. The victory was Hyndman's sixth in nine starts and tied the Pennsylvanians with Beall for the runner-up position in the conference. Box scores:

O'Conor Requests

eral, the governor said, "I have received today a request from William Preston Lane, Jr., Esquire, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, that an extraordinary session of the General Assembly be called to consider legislation enabling additional voters, including war veterans, to participate in the primary elections on June 14, 1946. xxx"

He enclosed a copy of Lane's letter and wrote, "It would be of considerable assistance to me in deciding whether a special session is required or justified if I were to have the opinion of the state law department regarding various aspects of the present situation.

"In this connection I would like to be advised whether, at the approaching registration days in the counties to be held before the primary, sufficient authority is given the supervisors of elections to take action enabling these persons to vote."

Lane's letter pointed out that many Marylanders in the armed forces cast absentee ballots in 1944 to become automatically registered, but failed to state a party preference because they were voting in the general election.

It said, "Unless these veterans have since affiliated with a political party or are given a fair opportunity to affiliate, they are barred from participating in the primary elections."

On this score, the governor's letter to the attorney general said, "My attention has also been called to the fact that the General Assembly vested certain discretionary power in the War Ballot Commission and it would be of interest to know whether any discretion is vested in this statutory body making it possible for the designated members to take action in this matter."

He said he was confident "this pressing question" would receive the attorney general's "usual prompt attention."

Besides veterans, Lane said that others who would lose their primary vote were those "being removed from voting lists because of the operation of Section 29 (B) of Article 33 of the Annotated Code, which makes it the duty of election officials to cancel all registrations of persons who have failed to vote at least once within the five preceding calendar years."

He said he knew there were "many practical difficulties to be overcome in making changes in registration," and suggested that the governor consider calling a special session to provide greater opportunity for registrations.

FRIDAY GAME
Beall at LaSalle

Sid Weinbach put on the "white-washing act" for the fourth time yesterday as Allegany high school's baseball team swept its season series with Fort Hill at Campobello by taking the final game, 6-0, and thereby laid claim to both the city and Tri-State Conference championships for the 1946 season.

Pitching his sixth complete game, Weinbach let the Hilltoppers down with three hits—Irvin Mangus's single in the second, Frye's one-base knock in the sixth, and Johnny Brown's two base blow in the seventh—and breezed the third strike past ten at Campobello to register his sixth triumph in as many starts. He also boosted his total strikeouts for the season to an even seventy.

Only twenty-one batsmen faced the AHS portsider in the first six frames and the only time he was in danger was in the final frame when he lost control momentarily, walked two batsmen, then finished up in whirlwind style by whiffing Dean and Hansrote to end the game. Johnny Brown opened the inning by lining a double to center. Then Jim Mangus drew a pass. Jimmie Radcliffe fumbled one of Weinbach's pitches, recovered the ball, and whipped the pellet to "Sonny" Lease in time to cut down Brown, who attempted to advance to third on the play. Willison's single, Lease's double, Weinbach's infield out, a double steal and error produced Allegany's last two runs in the sixth.

Elmer Freeland, Fort Hill first sacker, who had hit safely in nine games, was stopped by Weinbach, who struck him out three times in as many trips to the plate. Out of a total of six passes issued by Judy, Charley Baker worked him for four of them. Judy struck out nine batters.

Allegany clinched city honors by winning its third straight game, two from Fort Hill and one from LaSalle. The Campers laid claim to the conference title through winning eight out of nine games, including a game via the forfeit route from Paw Paw, which will be unable to play its final game of the season with the Campers. Paw Paw lost its first game to A.H.S., 31-0, and has suffered decisive defeats at the hands of all other conference teams.

The seniors of Allegany high school will play the underclassmen in a baseball game tomorrow at 4 p. m., at Campobello, it was announced last night by Hubert Radcliffe, baseball coach.

SID WEINBACH, clever southpaw of Allegany high school's championship team, bagged his sixth straight victory of the season yesterday when he applied a coat of kalsomine to Fort Hill's Sentinels, 6-0. It was his fourth shutout triumph of the season. He blanked Beall twice, 2-0 and 4-0 and beat Fort Hill 9-2, Hyndman 9-2 and LaSalle 2-0. By fanning ten batsmen in yesterday's contest, Weinbach boosted his season total to seventy victims, an average of slightly better than eleven strikeouts per game.

Pill-Taking Athletes Ring in Families

BELLINGHAM, Wash.—(AP)—Dr. Charles Lappenbusch, director of athletics at Western Washington College, reports his pillbox is running low.

"Before the war I gave Vitamin B pills to athletes at little cost but now they're back married and demanding pills for their families," he said.

"One player turned up for my basketball team with three children. I couldn't keep him on the squad. The pill bill would have ruined our treasury."

Dodgers' Vic Lombardi Snaps Giants' Win Streak

Diminutive Southpaw Limits New Yorkers To Five Hits; Wins By Score of 5-1

BROOKLYN, May 29 (AP)—Little Vic Lombardi became the first National League pitcher to notch seven victories today as he throttled the New York Giants on five hits in pitching the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-1 triumph.

Lombardi's win enabled the Dodgers to maintain their two game margin over the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals who defeated the Cubs in Chicago.

The diminutive southpaw's victory, his seventh straight over the Giants without a defeat in two years, snapped a five-game New York winning streak.

Benny Warren's homer in the fourth inning spoiled his bid for a shutout. Box:

REDS THROTTLE PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, May 29 (AP) — Cincinnati snuffed out a Pittsburgh winning streak at four games today by taking a 7 to 6 victory. Two singles and an infield out gave the Reds an eighth-inning run which broke a 6 to 6 deadlock before a meager crowd of 4,112.

Nine pitchers took the mound in the two hour and 34 minute game. The Pirates piled up six runs on eleven hits with Bucky Walters, Clayton Lambert and Clyde Shoun as the victims before Harry Gumbert stopped the hit barrage. Gumbert gave up only two hits in the last five and two-thirds innings. Nick Strincevich was the losing hurler — his fourth loss against no victories. Box:

Baseball Guild Asks To Be Bargaining Agent for Pirates

Campaign to Unionize Players Starts with Petition to NLRB

PITTSBURGH, May 29 (AP) — The American Baseball Guild today opened its campaign to unionize major league baseball players with a request to the National Labor Board that it be certified as collective bargaining agents for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The petition, first in the annals of major league baseball, was filed by Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the guild.

He wrote the NLRB the appropriate bargaining unit should include all the baseball players on the club "except those owned outright by or on option to the club who are not presently members of the Pirates club." He also excluded executives, managers, and coaches.

Frank M. Kleiler, director of the NLRB regional office here, said he had sent a letter to the club management, informing them the petition had been filed and requesting a conference of company, union, and NLRB representatives to dispose of the matter.

If the company and union are unable to reach an agreement in conference, Kleiler said a "yes or no" election on the question of guild representation might be the next step in the procedure.

President William E. Benswanger was not available for comment but he has agreed to meet with Murphy here June 5. This meeting, Murphy said, would not be concerned with demands for improved working conditions for ball players but "merely to see if we can work out a friendly method of determining whether we have a majority."

Auto Race Classic Set for Today At Indianapolis

Record Attendance of 140,000 Expected; Hotels Jammed

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29 (AP) —America's automobile race fans, hungry for exciting crack-ups, thrills and speed after a four-year famine, may establish a record attendance for tomorrow's thirtieth renewal of the world famous 500-mile classic at the Indianapolis speedway with a crowd ranging upwards of 140,000.

The starting field of thirty-three drivers, one a European, speediest in the history of the event, is complete.

Only clear weather is needed to assure perfect racing conditions and a dry, fast track. However, the weatherman threatened to dampen the situation as possible showers, with cooler temperatures, were forecast. In the event of rain, the start, scheduled for 10 a. m. (Central Standard Time) will be delayed until the weather clears. If showers come during the race, the drivers' speed will be slowed down to 45 miles an hour pending cessation of the rain.

This Indiana capital city, already overcrowded for a week, was bulging tonight with the crush of race visitors. They dropped out of the air, arrived by trains and crowded the highways from all directions. They overflowed the sidewalks, overburdened downtown traffic and vainly sought a place to sleep. Hotels were jammed with three and four occupants to a room. Thousands of visitors spent the night with relatives or friends, while hundreds tried to sleep in parked cars, railroad station benches or hotel lobbies. Race fans are a breed of sleepless wonders. Many remaining up all night probably will not knock off a single wink.

Hundreds were lined up in front of the sprawling 430-acre racing plant, six miles northwest of downtown Indianapolis, awaiting the opening of the gates at 6 a. m. They spent the night there wrapped in blankets or in front of fires to temper the night's chill.

Everywhere tonight the conversation was race chatter concerned with the possible winner, his time and the likelihood for shattering records. The talk centered around quartette of famous drivers—Cliff Bergere, Indianapolis; Rex Mays, Long Beach, Calif., Ralph Hepburn, Van Nuys, Calif., and Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., all veterans of speedway competition.

The outstanding favorite, naturally, probably will be the 50-year-old Hepburn, who traveled faster than any other driver in zipping his low-slung, eight-cylinder racer around the two and a half mile track to a new qualifying record of 133.944 miles per hour.

Just before James J. Jeffries, clergyman's son, stepped into the ring at the Coney Island, N. Y., Sporting Club's arena that hot June night in 1899 to meet Bob Fitzsimmons for the heavyweight championship, Mrs. Tom Siler, wife of the referee, revealed that she had bet a new bonnet that Jeffries would win.

Whether the rat was inspiration enough or not, Jeffries did win the heavyweight championship by knocking out the 37-year-old Fitzsimmons in the eleventh round.

Born at Baltimore, Ohio, April 15, 1875, Jeffries moved to Los Angeles with his parents at an early age. He began fighting in 1896. In 1897, when Corbett defended his crown against Fitzsimmons, Jeffries was a sparring partner for "Gentleman Jim."

Despite the fact the challenger outweighed him by fifty-three pounds, Fitzsimmons entered the fight as the favorite. A threat of police intervention failed to keep down the size of the crowd which numbered 9,000.

Many arrived early and enjoyed the midway at Coney Island.

Jeffries was the first to enter the ring. He came in at 9:20 p. m. Fitzsimmons and his wife arrived at 10:05.

Before the bout began a big floral piece, with most of the flowers wilted, was brought into the ring. On it was inscribed, "Good luck to the champ."

A big man, Jeffries had trained well for the fight. He fought from a crouch and jabbed with his left, having the longer reach.

Jeff downed Fitzsimmons at the start of the tenth round. Fitz's manager ran along the side of the ring sprinkling water on his fighter, urging him to get up. Fitz finally got up and held on and lasted out the round.

In the eleventh, Jeff was upon him, pounding home rights and lefts and Fitz went down for good.

Fitz continued to fight until 1914 and had a return match with Jeffries in San Francisco in 1902. Fitz was knocked out in eight rounds.

Robert Myers, Jr., Wins Fort Hill Rifle Match

Robert Myers, Jr., posted a score of 195-6x to win the third outdoor rifle match of the Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club's summer season on the Fort Hill range.

The course of fire consisted of twenty shots in the prone position over a fifty-yard range, making a possible score 200. Twenty-two caliber rifles were used. The scores:

R. Myers, Jr., 195-6x; G. F. Simpson, 194-7x; R. Myers, Sr., 190-3x; G. V. Tucker 189-3x; W. C. Simpson, 186-5x; H. M. Heller, 185-3x; R. Wallis, 178; J. V. Matt, 178, and W. I. Whetzel, 173.

Dodgers' Vic Lombardi Snaps Giants' Win Streak

Diminutive Southpaw Limits New Yorkers To Five Hits; Wins By Score of 5-1

BROOKLYN, May 29 (AP)—Little Vic Lombardi became the first National League pitcher to notch seven victories today as he throttled the New York Giants on five hits in pitching the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to a 5-1 triumph.

Lombardi's win enabled the Dodgers to maintain their two game margin over the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals who defeated the Cubs in Chicago.

The diminutive southpaw's victory, his seventh straight over the Giants without a defeat in two years, snapped a five-game New York winning streak.

Benny Warren's homer in the fourth inning spoiled his bid for a shutout. Box:

REDS THROTTLE PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, May 29 (AP) — Cincinnati snuffed out a Pittsburgh winning streak at four games today by taking a 7 to 6 victory. Two singles and an infield out gave the Reds an eighth-inning run which broke a 6 to 6 deadlock before a meager crowd of 4,112.

Nine pitchers took the mound in the two hour and 34 minute game. The Pirates piled up six runs on eleven hits with Bucky Walters, Clayton Lambert and Clyde Shoun as the victims before Harry Gumbert stopped the hit barrage. Gumbert gave up only two hits in the last five and two-thirds innings. Nick Strincevich was the losing hurler — his fourth loss against no victories. Box:

Baseball Guild Asks To Be Bargaining Agent for Pirates

Campaign to Unionize Players Starts with Petition to NLRB

PITTSBURGH, May 29 (AP) — The American Baseball Guild today opened its campaign to unionize major league baseball players with a request to the National Labor Board that it be certified as collective bargaining agents for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The petition, first in the annals of major league baseball, was filed by Robert Murphy, labor relations director of the guild.

He wrote the NLRB the appropriate bargaining unit should include all the baseball players on the club "except those owned outright by or on option to the club who are not presently members of the Pirates club." He also excluded executives, managers, and coaches.

Frank M. Kleiler, director of the NLRB regional office here, said he had sent a letter to the club management, informing them the petition had been filed and requesting a conference of company, union, and NLRB representatives to dispose of the matter.

If the company and union are unable to reach an agreement in conference, Kleiler said a "yes or no" election on the question of guild representation might be the next step in the procedure.

President William E. Benswanger was not available for comment but he has agreed to meet with Murphy here June 5. This meeting, Murphy said, would not be concerned with demands for improved working conditions for ball players but "merely to see if we can work out a friendly method of determining whether we have a majority."

Auto Race Classic Set for Today At Indianapolis

Record Attendance of 140,000 Expected; Hotels Jammed

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29 (AP) —America's automobile race fans, hungry for exciting crack-ups, thrills and speed after a four-year famine, may establish a record attendance for tomorrow's thirtieth renewal of the world famous 500-mile classic at the Indianapolis speedway with a crowd ranging upwards of 140,000.

The starting field of thirty-three drivers, one a European, speediest in the history of the event, is complete.

Only clear weather is needed to assure perfect racing conditions and a dry, fast track. However, the weatherman threatened to dampen the situation as possible showers, with cooler temperatures, were forecast. In the event of rain, the start, scheduled for 10 a. m. (Central Standard Time) will be delayed until the weather clears. If showers come during the race, the drivers' speed will be slowed down to 45 miles an hour pending cessation of the rain.

This Indiana capital city, already overcrowded for a week, was bulging tonight with the crush of race visitors. They dropped out of the air, arrived by trains and crowded the highways from all directions. They overflowed the sidewalks, overburdened downtown traffic and vainly sought a place to sleep. Hotels were jammed with three and four occupants to a room. Thousands of visitors spent the night with relatives or friends, while hundreds tried to sleep in parked cars, railroad station benches or hotel lobbies. Race fans are a breed of sleepless wonders. Many remaining up all night probably will not knock off a single wink.

Hundreds were lined up in front of the sprawling 430-acre racing plant, six miles northwest of downtown Indianapolis, awaiting the opening of the gates at 6 a. m. They spent the night there wrapped in blankets or in front of fires to temper the night's chill.

Everywhere tonight the conversation was race chatter concerned with the possible winner, his time and the likelihood for shattering records. The talk centered around quartette of famous drivers—Cliff Bergere, Indianapolis; Rex Mays, Long Beach, Calif., Ralph Hepburn, Van Nuys, Calif., and Mauri Rose, South Bend, Ind., all veterans of speedway competition.

The outstanding favorite, naturally, probably will be the 50-year-old Hepburn, who traveled faster than any other driver in zipping his low-slung, eight-cylinder racer around the two and a half mile track to a new qualifying record of 133.944 miles per hour.

Just before James J. Jeffries, clergyman's son, stepped into the ring at the Coney Island, N. Y., Sporting Club's arena that hot June night in 1899 to meet Bob Fitzsimmons for the heavyweight championship, Mrs. Tom Siler, wife of the referee, revealed that she had bet a new bonnet that Jeffries would win.

Whether the rat was inspiration enough or not, Jeffries did win the heavyweight championship by knocking out the 37-year-old Fitzsimmons in the eleventh round.

Born at Baltimore, Ohio, April 15, 1875, Jeffries moved to Los Angeles with his parents at an early age. He began fighting in 1896. In 1897, when Corbett defended his crown against Fitzsimmons, Jeffries was a sparring partner for "Gentleman Jim."

Despite the fact the challenger outweighed him by fifty-three pounds, Fitzsimmons entered the fight as the favorite. A threat of police intervention failed to keep down the size of the crowd which numbered 9,000.

Many arrived early and enjoyed the midway at Coney Island.

Jeffries was the first to enter the ring. He came in at 9:20 p. m. Fitzsimmons and his wife arrived at 10:05.

Before the bout began a big floral piece, with most of the flowers wilted, was brought into the ring. On it was inscribed, "Good luck to the champ."

A big man, Jeffries had trained well for the fight. He fought from a crouch and jabbed with his left, having the longer reach.

Jeff downed Fitzsimmons at the start of the tenth round. Fitz's manager ran along the side of the ring sprinkling water on his fighter, urging him to get up. Fitz finally got up and held on and lasted out the round.

In the eleventh, Jeff was upon him, pounding home rights and lefts and Fitz went down for good.

Fitz continued to fight until 1914 and had a return match with Jeffries in San Francisco in 1902. Fitz was knocked out in eight rounds.

Robert Myers, Jr., Wins Fort Hill Rifle Match

Robert Myers, Jr., posted a score of 195-6x to win the third outdoor rifle match of the Fort Hill Rifle and Pistol Club's summer season on the Fort Hill range.

The course of fire consisted of twenty shots in the prone position over a fifty-yard range, making a possible score 200. Twenty-two caliber rifles were used. The scores:

R. Myers, Jr., 195-6x; G. F. Simpson, 194-7x; R. Myers, Sr., 190-3x; G. V. Tucker 189-3x; W. C. Simpson, 186-5x; H. M. Heller, 185-3x; R. Wallis, 178; J. V. Matt, 178, and W. I. Whetzel, 173.

Charley Ruffing Hurls 3-Hitter, Beats Nats, 4-0

New York Yankees' Ace Notches Win No. 268 of His Career

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—Charley "Red" Ruffing, veteran New York righthander, cooled off the torrid Washington Senators today by yielding only three hits in pitching the Yanks to a 4-0 triumph.

The victory, Ruffing's 268th of his American League career and his third of the year against no defeats increased the runner-up Yankees' margin over the third place Senators to one-and-one-half games.

Mickey Vernon, the junior loop's leading batter, touched Ruffing for two of the Senators' three hits. Vernon singled in the second and fourth innings. Buddy Lewis doubled in the ninth for Washington's final safety. Box:

Duke Coach Answers With Touchdowns

NORFOLK, Va., (AP)—Elmer Tarrall, Granby high school football coach, may have the answer as to why Wallace Wade, the long-time Duke grid mentor, has been so successful at turning out champion football machines.

Tarrall played under Wade at Duke back in the thirties. This is a story he tells about Wade—

It seems somebody asked Touchdown Master Wade just why he didn't go in for something a little more on the razzle-dazzle side like the "T" formation.

Wade replied: "Do you know which team averages the most touchdowns each season?"

Then Wade quickly answered his own question: "Well, I'll tell you, mine does."

Charley Ruffing Hurls 3-Hitter, Beats Nats, 4-0

New York Yankees' Ace Notches Win No. 268 of His Career

NEW YORK, May 29—(AP)—Charley "Red" Ruffing, veteran New York righthander, cooled off the torrid Washington Senators today by yielding only three hits in pitching the Yanks to a 4-0 triumph.

The victory, Ruffing's 268th of his American League career and his third of the year against no defeats increased the runner-up Yankees' margin over the third place Senators to one-and-one-half games.

Mickey Vernon, the junior loop's leading batter, touched Ruffing for two of the Senators' three hits. Vernon singled in the second and fourth innings. Buddy Lewis doubled in the ninth for Washington's final safety. Box:

Duke Coach Answers With Touchdowns

NORFOLK, Va., (AP)—Elmer Tarrall, Granby high school football coach, may have the answer as to why Wallace Wade, the long-time Duke grid mentor, has been so successful at turning out champion football machines.

Tarrall played under Wade at Duke back in the thirties. This is a story he tells about Wade—

It seems somebody asked Touchdown Master Wade just why he didn't go in for something a little more on the razzle-dazzle side like the "T" formation.

Wade replied: "Do you know which team averages the most touchdowns each season?"

Then Wade quickly answered his own question: "Well, I'll tell you, mine does."

A crew of nine announcers will handle the event, and there will be some pickups of radio conversations between drivers and their repair pits. The horse race, on two networks at 3:30—CBS and ABC—will be the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park, N. Y.

Program finals are due in these categories: NBC 7:30 Dinah Shore show with Red Skelton guest, no indication of future plans; CBS 8 Lily Pons singing in her husband Andre Kostelanetz's concert which is concluding without listing of next season's schedule; NBC 10:30 "Story of Music," ending under direction of Milton Katims.

MBS has listed a premiere at 9, the Beatrice Kay show, a new musical comedy series with Peter Lind Hayes.

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 29. (AP)—Memorial day broadcasting brings the post-war revivial of the Indianapolis motor speedway races, memorial services and some special horse racing.

The auto races, listed by MBS under an exclusive contract, will go on the air in four periods, 10:45 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 3:15. A crew of nine announcers will handle the event, and there will be some pickups of radio conversations between drivers and their repair pits. The navy's Memorial day will make a special for MBS at 12:30 p. m. It will originate from the flight deck of the carrier F. D. Roosevelt and be in memory of men of the navy, marine corps and coast guard who lost their lives in the war . . . Also at 11:30 a. m. NBC will have an American Legion Memorial day program.

The horse race, on two networks at 3:30—CBS and ABC—will be the Suburban handicap at Belmont Park, N. Y.

Program finals are due in these categories: NBC 7:30 Dinah Shore show with Red Skelton guest, no indication of future plans; CBS 8 Lily Pons singing in her husband Andre Kostelanetz's concert which is concluding without listing of next season's schedule; NBC 10:30 "Story of Music," ending under direction of Milton Katims.

MBS has listed a premiere at 9, the Beatrice Kay show, a new musical comedy series with Peter Lind Hayes.

America's Town Meeting, originating in Detroit in connection with the automobile industry's golden jubilee, will debate "Are We Moving Toward a Government Controlled Economy?" at 7:30.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Mother, Elizabeth E. Eyler, who passed away one year ago, May 29, 1945.

We do not forget you,
Nor do we intend,
We think of you often,
And will to the end.
Gone and forgotten
By some you may be,
But dear to our memory
Mother, you ever will be.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our Mother, Elizabeth E. Eyler, who passed away one year ago, May 29, 1945.

We do not forget you,
Nor do we intend,
We think of you often,
And will to the end.
Gone and forgotten
By some you may be,
But dear to our memory
Mother, you ever will be.

Sadly missed by
HER CHILDREN.

Two High Schools' Seniors Graduate Today, Tomorrow

Blind Humorist Will Speak at Fort Hill and Allegany Exercises

Cumberland's two largest high schools will graduate 354 seniors at commencement exercises tonight and tomorrow night with the Rev. Larmon Sherwood, New York, blind humorist and philosopher, scheduled to give both commencement addresses.

The Fort Hill high school commencement will be tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. One hundred sixty-six seniors will receive their diplomas.

The Allegany high school graduation program will be at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the school auditorium. Allegany high will graduate 188 seniors.

Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill high, said last night that Miss Betty May has been selected by the members of the senior class to give the oration. Ralph R. Webster, principal of Allegany high, said that Robert Doty was selected to give the class oration at the Allegany commencement.

Will Present Awards

Heisey said that sixteen or seventeen awards will be made at the Fort Hill commencement for scholastic and athletic endeavor. Webster announced that fourteen such awards will be made at the Allegany commencement.

The Fort Hill exercises will open with selections by the orchestra and a cappella choir after which Miss May will present the class oration. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, will introduce the speaker of the evening. The diplomas will be awarded by E. A. Dashiell, president of the board of education. The Rev. Arthur L. Hunter, pastor of Grace Methodist church, will give the invocation and the benediction.

At the Allegany commencement, the Rev. Edwin W. Saylor, pastor of First Baptist church, will give the invocation and benediction. Superintendent Kopp will again present the Rev. Mr. Sherwood and Mr. Dashiell will give out the diplomas. The orchestra and choir will give several numbers and there will be an organ interlude.

Cover Most Fields

The awards for distinguished work to be made by the principals of both schools at the commencements include practically every field of scholastic activity and also awards for athletic ability.

It was explained that graduating classes do not now have class salutatorians and valedictorians as such but that high point students who also excell in leadership and other desirable attributes are elected to the National Honor Society. The names of these students will be engraved on the back of the commencement programs.

Damages Reduced In Suit Brought By Eugene Bowman

The amount of damages awarded to the plaintiff in a lower court decision in the sale of an automobile yesterday was reduced from $210 and costs to $104 and costs by Chief Judge William A. Huster who heard testimony in the civil appeal filed by Allen Schlosberg, defendant, in the action brought by Eugene Bowman.

According to testimony in the case, Bowman purchased a 1938 Pontiac sedan from Schlosberg for $690. He charged the car operated in a satisfactory manner during a demonstration but that the gas line started giving trouble while he was driving the car home after purchasing it.

There was also testimony to the effect that the car's engine needed considerable overhauling to put it in good condition and it was estimated that these repairs would amount to $100.

The court ruled that there was no breach of warranty sufficient to justify rescinding the contract of sale but stated that the seller was liable for keeping the car in repair during a thirty day warranty period.

Originally, Magistrate Frank A. Perdew had awarded the petitioner a total of $210 and costs. The higher court cut this amount down to $104 and costs after hearing the testimony on the appeal.

William L. Wilson, Jr., represented Schlosberg with Noel Speir Cook acting as counsel for Bowman.

Federal Inspection Of Company C Held

Federal inspection of Company C, Maryland State Guard, was conducted at the state armory last night by Lt. Col. Christian L. Claypoole, federal instructor for the state of Maryland, and two assisting officers, Maj. M. W. Roberts and Capt. Jacques de Hart, all of Third Service Command headquarters, Baltimore.

Maj. Roberts, from the troop training division of the service command, said the company, commanded by Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, "looked good," considering the fact that the majority of the men on the roster have been in the outfit only a short time.

He said they "show a willingness to learn" and probably will become proficient as a result of training at the summer camp of the guard.

Capt. de Hart is from the provost marshall's office.

Federal inspection of Company D, state guard, was held several months ago.

Man Is Arrested After Chase; Gets 20 Days in Jail

Paul Miller Is Accused of Tampering with Truck; Driver Fined $72

Arrested early yesterday morning after a chase on foot up Virginia avenue, Paul Charles Miller, 4 Grand avenue, was committed to the county jail for twenty days on a charge of tampering with a Shipway Motor Express Company truck parked in the rear of the B. and O. YMCA.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, who committed Miller to jail after he was unable to pay a fine of $20 and costs, said testimony disclosed that Miller ate a meal at the B. and O. Y and left without paying for it.

From the Y Miller went to Lafayette avenue in the rear and entered a Charlton Brothers Transportation Company truck parked in the rear of a Shipway truck, the magistrate related.

Hits Second Truck

After succeeding in starting the truck, Miller started to pull out and hit the Shipway truck, rousing Kenneth W. Shipway, Flintstone, who was asleep in the vehicle, the magistrate said, adding that Miller again struck the Shipway truck and then fled when he saw Shipway watching him.

Shipway took out on foot after Miller and chased him up Virginia avenue to Laing avenue where the latter disappeared into a house and was apprehended a few minutes later by Officer E. P. Wilson.

William J. Hutcheson, 133 Hanover street, was fined $72.20 by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., on charges of failing to stop after injuring a person and reckless driving.

St. Philip's Episcopal Chapel To Be Consecrated Sunday Night

Bishop Powell To Deliver Sermon; Denson Will Burn Notes

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Episcopal Bishop of Maryland, will officiate at the consecration of St. Philip's Episcopal chapel, Smallwood street, which has just recently been freed from debt, at ceremonies to be conducted here Sunday evening.

The service will begin at 7 p. m., with the pronouncement of the "Peace" by the bishop. After the recitation of the Twenty-fourth psalm by the clergy, the request for consecration will be read by Johnson M. Denson, senior warden of the chapel.

Tasker G. Lowndes, senior warden of Emmanuel Episcopal church, will read the official declaration that the building is free from debt and the notes will be burned by Denson, treasurer of the chapel.

Following the sentence of consecration, to be read by the Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, vicar of the chapel, the bishop will deliver the sermon.

Music for the service will be furnished by St. Philip's choir, augmented by a quartet from Emmanuel choir, consisting of Mrs. J. M. Andrews, Mrs. Howard Taylor, Mrs. Jacque Wetzel and Andrew S. Roemer, who will sing Shilling's "Te Deum" at the offertory. Mrs. William H. Oswald will be organist for the service.

The Rev. David C. Watson, and the Rev. Louis H. Ewald will be the attendant clergy.

The congregation of St. Philip's began with Samuel Denson and his family in the late 1880's under the direction of the Rev. Clarence Buel, a rector of Emmanuel church, and the first services were held in a small building at the corner of what was then known as Baltimore and Water streets.

As the congregation grew, it secured a piece of property on South Smallwood street containing a frame dwelling, and after the partitions of this building were removed, church services were held here for more than twenty years.

A temporary parish house was erected behind this building in 1921 and funds were raised to build a permanent one two years later. In 1930 the original church was torn down and replaced by the present brick building.

The final payment on this building was made last November and the property is now vested in the vestry of Emmanuel church until such time as St. Philip's congregation becomes entirely self-supporting.

Suggestions Made For Improvements To Mine at Ocean

Haulage, More Effective Coursing of Air Cited by Federal Inspector

More effective coursing of air to working places and improved haulage practices for Ocean No. 1 mine of the Consolidated Fuel Company, located at Ocean, are among the principal recommendations made by a federal coal mine inspector, the Bureau of Mines disclosed yesterday.

The mine produces 175 tons of coal daily and employs forty-two men, according to a formal reinspection report on the property, made by Inspector F. E. Riley.

In commenting on the ventilation at the mine, Riley noted that the amount of air reaching some working entries was not adequate and he suggested such air-coursing betterments as prompt closing of all but the last crosscuts, installation of air-lock doors, and erection of incombustible stoppings between the intake and return of the main haulageway. Frequent tests for gas with permissible flame-safety lamps also was proposed in the report.

Several suggestions for minimizing hazards associated with the haulage phase of operations were offered by Riley. These included continuous, unobstructed clearance along the haulageway in the slope and at the Rock Hill section, use of permissible trip lights, and improved blocking of standing cars.

The report credited the mine with several between-inspection safety gains, embracing safer storage of explosives, proper installation of the trolley wire in the Rock Hill heading, and an improved mine map.

Further proposals for increasing safety generally at the mine called for the removal of loose roof at one section of the main haulageway, use of permissible explosives exclusively, a ban on smoking in the mine and the use of open-flame lights, elimination of several electrical shock hazards, additional fire-fighting facilities, and the wearing of special protective clothing by all employes.

Lawyer Says U. S. Must Keep Word To War Dead

Col. Henderson Tells Lions America Must Stand Back of Beliefs

It is the duty of the people of America to see that promises made to the dead of two world wars are kept and to preserve the ideals they were told they were fighting for, Col. George Henderson, Cumberland attorney and veteran of both wars, declared yesterday in a pre-Memorial day address delivered at the meeting of the Lions club in Central YMCA.

Twice in less than half a century this country has been engaged in two major wars and sent many men out to die, Col. Henderson stated.

"We made them promises and told them they were fighting for certain ideals," he said, "and it is our duty to see that these promises are carried out and the ideals preserved.

Mere hatred of war is not enough; history proves that, Col. Henderson said, adding, "We must be willing to back up our beliefs with action, armed action if necessary.

"Aggression or injustice, like a plague or a fire, must be stamped out before it spreads. We must start at home and make Christianity and democracy work here. In other words, we must set an example and not simply preach a sermon."

Col. Henderson said America must be careful the United Nations is not like the League of Nations.

"We must be for it, with equivocation," he declared, "even though it requires sacrifices of part of our sovereignty, or requires us to send our men to enforce its mandates. Only in this way can peace be brought about and our promises to our dead carried out."

Damages Reduced In Suit Brought By Eugene Bowman

The amount of damages awarded to the plaintiff in a lower court decision in the sale of an automobile yesterday was reduced from $210 and costs to $104 and costs by Chief Judge William A. Huster who heard testimony in the civil appeal filed by Allen Schlosberg, defendant, in the action brought by Eugene Bowman.

According to testimony in the case, Bowman purchased a 1938 Pontiac sedan from Schlosberg for $690. He charged the car operated in a satisfactory manner during a demonstration but that the gas line started giving trouble while he was driving the car home after purchasing it.

There was also testimony to the effect that the car's engine needed considerable overhauling to put it in good condition and it was estimated that these repairs would amount to $100.

The court ruled that there was no breach of warranty sufficient to justify rescinding the contract of sale but stated that the seller was liable for keeping the car in repair during a thirty day warranty period.

Originally, Magistrate Frank A. Perdew had awarded the petitioner a total of $210 and costs. The higher court cut this amount down to $104 and costs after hearing the testimony on the appeal.

William L. Wilson, Jr., represented Schlosberg with Noel Speir Cook acting as counsel for Bowman.

Man Is Arrested After Chase; Gets 20 Days in Jail

Paul Miller Is Accused of Tampering with Truck; Driver Fined $72

Arrested early yesterday morning after a chase on foot up Virginia avenue, Paul Charles Miller, 4 Grand avenue, was committed to the county jail for twenty days on a charge of tampering with a Shipway Motor Express Company truck parked in the rear of the B. and O. YMCA.

Magistrate Frank A. Perdew, who committed Miller to jail after he was unable to pay a fine of $20 and costs, said testimony disclosed that Miller ate a meal at the B. and O. Y and left without paying for it.

From the Y Miller went to Lafayette avenue in the rear and entered a Charlton Brothers Transportation Company truck parked in the rear of a Shipway truck, the magistrate related.

Hits Second Truck

After succeeding in starting the truck, Miller started to pull out and hit the Shipway truck, rousing Kenneth W. Shipway, Flintstone, who was asleep in the vehicle, the magistrate said, adding that Miller again struck the Shipway truck and then fled when he saw Shipway watching him.

Shipway took out on foot after Miller and chased him up Virginia avenue to Laing avenue where the latter disappeared into a house and was apprehended a few minutes later by Officer E. P. Wilson.

William J. Hutcheson, 133 Hanover street, was fined $72.20 by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., on charges of failing to stop after injuring a person and reckless driving.

Police arrested Hutcheson early yesterday morning after his automobile collided with the machine occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. White, 1400 Virginia avenue, on Park street. Mrs. White was slightly hurt. Officers P. C. Jenkins and W. E. Chaney made the arrest.

Pleads Not Guilty

Hutcheson pleaded not guilty to failing to stop, but was found guilty by the magistrate and fined $51.45. He was fined $20.75 on the reckless driving charge to which he pleaded guilty.

St. Philip's Episcopal Chapel To Be Consecrated Sunday Night

Bishop Powell To Deliver Sermon; Denson Will Burn Notes

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Episcopal Bishop of Maryland, will officiate at the consecration of St. Philip's Episcopal chapel, Smallwood street, which has just recently been freed from debt, at ceremonies to be conducted here Sunday evening.

The service will begin at 7 p. m., with the pronouncement of the "Peace" by the bishop. After the recitation of the Twenty-fourth psalm by the clergy, the request for consecration will be read by Johnson M. Denson, senior warden of the chapel.

Tasker G. Lowndes, senior warden of Emmanuel Episcopal church, will read the official declaration that the building is free from debt and the notes will be burned by Denson, treasurer of the chapel.

Following the sentence of consecration, to be read by the Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, vicar of the chapel, the bishop will deliver the sermon.

Music for the service will be furnished by St. Philip's choir, augmented by a quartet from Emmanuel choir, consisting of Mrs. J. M. Andrews, Mrs. Howard Taylor, Mrs. Jacque Wetzel and Andrew S. Roemer, who will sing Shilling's "Te Deum" at the offertory. Mrs. William H. Oswald will be organist for the service.

The Rev. David C. Watson, and the Rev. Louis H. Ewald will be the attendant clergy.

The congregation of St. Philip's began with Samuel Denson and his family in the late 1880's under the direction of the Rev. Clarence Buel, a rector of Emmanuel church, and the first services were held in a small building at the corner of what was then known as Baltimore and Water streets.

As the congregation grew, it secured a piece of property on South Smallwood street containing a frame dwelling, and after the partitions of this building were removed, church services were held here for more than twenty years.

A temporary parish house was erected behind this building in 1921 and funds were raised to build a permanent one two years later. In 1930 the original church was torn down and replaced by the present brick building.

The final payment on this building was made last November and the property is now vested in the vestry of Emmanuel church until such time as St. Philip's congregation becomes entirely self-supporting.

Suggestions Made For Improvements To Mine at Ocean

Haulage, More Effective Coursing of Air Cited by Federal Inspector

More effective coursing of air to working places and improved haulage practices for Ocean No. 1 mine of the Consolidated Fuel Company, located at Ocean, are among the principal recommendations made by a federal coal mine inspector, the Bureau of Mines disclosed yesterday.

The mine produces 175 tons of coal daily and employs forty-two men, according to a formal reinspection report on the property, made by Inspector F. E. Riley.

In commenting on the ventilation at the mine, Riley noted that the amount of air reaching some working entries was not adequate and he suggested such air-coursing betterments as prompt closing of all but the last crosscuts, installation of air-lock doors, and erection of incombustible stoppings between the intake and return of the main haulageway. Frequent tests for gas with permissible flame-safety lamps also was proposed in the report.

Several suggestions for minimizing hazards associated with the haulage phase of operations were offered by Riley. These included continuous, unobstructed clearance along the haulageway in the slope and at the Rock Hill section, use of permissible trip lights, and improved blocking of standing cars.

The report credited the mine with several between-inspection safety gains, embracing safer storage of explosives, proper installation of the trolley wire in the Rock Hill heading, and an improved mine map.

Further proposals for increasing safety generally at the mine called for the removal of loose roof at one section of the main haulageway, use of permissible explosives exclusively, a ban on smoking in the mine and the use of open-flame lights, elimination of several electrical shock hazards, additional fire-fighting facilities, and the wearing of special protective clothing by all employes.

Lawyer Says U. S. Must Keep Word To War Dead

Col. Henderson Tells Lions America Must Stand Back of Beliefs

It is the duty of the people of America to see that promises made to the dead of two world wars are kept and to preserve the ideals they were told they were fighting for, Col. George Henderson, Cumberland attorney and veteran of both wars, declared yesterday in a pre-Memorial day address delivered at the meeting of the Lions club in Central YMCA.

Twice in less than half a century this country has been engaged in two major wars and sent many men out to die, Col. Henderson stated.

"We made them promises and told them they were fighting for certain ideals," he said, "and it is our duty to see that these promises are carried out and the ideals preserved.

Mere hatred of war is not enough; history proves that, Col. Henderson said, adding, "We must be willing to back up our beliefs with action, armed action if necessary.

"Aggression or injustice, like a plague or a fire, must be stamped out before it spreads. We must start at home and make Christianity and democracy work here. In other words, we must set an example and not simply preach a sermon."

Col. Henderson said America must be careful the United Nations is not like the League of Nations.

"We must be for it, with equivocation," he declared, "even though it requires sacrifices of part of our sovereignty, or requires us to send our men to enforce its mandates. Only in this way can peace be brought about and our promises to our dead carried out."
